Senate May Act Today On Health Care

Leaders Seek Vote, But Opponents Plan More Amendments

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic leaders pushed for final action today on the Social Security-health care bill after disposing of 14 amendments Wednesday in a burst of speed.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., the bill's floor manager, told newsmen "I see no reason why we cannot finish this bill tonight unless its opponents want to string it out, and there is no good reason for them to do so."

However, two Republican senators announced they would offer a number of amendments to the bill, which is one of President Johnson's most important legislative proposals.

Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., said he would propose at least three changes affecting the benefits in the present Social Security system.

Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., a strong foe of the new health care for the aged program in the bill, told a reporter he would make a sweeping recommittal motion to send the legislation back to the finance committee.

Under the Curtis motion, the committee would be directed to return the bill to the Senate by March 1 next year with a new health program patterned on the one now available to federal employes.

This would allow a choice of private insurance firms. Elderly persons with sufficient incomes would be required to pay the cost; there would be federal aid for the needy to pay premiums.

The basic hospitalization plan in the bill would be available to the 19 million Americans 65 or older as a matter of right.

Crew To Clear Mud After 1st Ave. 'Flood'

A street department crew today was scheduled to remove a thin mud deposit left on the 1st Ave. pavement Wednesday afternoon after the East End Run overflowed its banks in the area as a result of a torrential rain, Safety - Service Director Robert E. Vodrey reported.

The director said his office was deluged with telephone calls from property - owners in many parts of the city as a result of the brief but heavy rain. One motorist whose car motor was "drowned" in West End said the water was running curb deep along W. 8th St.

Vodey said the complaints received by his office concerned primarily storm sewers that could not cope with the heavy runoff and reports of unsurfaced streets being washed out by the rain.

Gunmen Kidnap 6

Manhunt Pushed Along West Coast

WOODLAND, Calif. (AP) — Six kidnap victims — taken by two gunmen in Oregon—were released unharmed near Woodland Wednesday night by the fugitives who had held up a bank and later killed an Oregon deputy sheriff.

A three - state manhunt was continuing for Wilbur Marion Grey, 30, a native of Brunswick, Ga., and Karl Cletes Bowles, 24, originally from Amarillo, Tex.

The FBI said the search was centering around nearby Sacramento, where the gunmen released the hostages and fled on foot.

The hostages were Mrs. David Corbin, 33, and her 12-year-old son by a previous marriage, Clinton Clark; Mr. and Mrs. Uldis Riekstins of Seattle, and their son's friend.

Grey and Bowles, who completed terms at Oregon State Prison only last week, also are suspected of robbing an Oregon bank Tuesday of about $14,000, the FBI said.

"It wasn't bad on us at all," Mrs. Corbin said.

"I jut hate them for killing that policeman. I just hope they get the same thing."

"They were so confused all the time," she said. "I had to show them how to get out of town. They talked about everything under the sun. They told me a lot of stories."

She said the six hostages made no attempt to escape.

In Springfield, Ore., where Mrs. Corbin was kidnaped, police outlined this sequence of events:

"This is 15 at Goodpasture and Delta interchange. I have a 1959 Triumph. License 9F-6773."

In a few seconds he radioed again:

"Fifteen to 33, can you come?"

Car No. 33 was Sgt. Howard Kershner, who headed for the scene.

"His voice was calm," Kershner recalled later, "just as if he wanted some advice on how to write a ticket or something."

Suddenly an agonizing cry came over the police frequency:

"Oh, my God, I'm shot."

Smith was found dead, slumped beside his patrol car. He had been felled by a shotgun blast and six pistol bullets.

The fugitives then invaded the nearby Corbin home and forced her and Clinton into the family car.

Near Marion Forks, 125 miles northeast of Springfield, the car mired in the mud. The gunmen then commandeered the Riekstins camper truck.

Lisbon St. Bill Delayed

Blacktop Work Approved On Main East End Artery

City Council gave approval at a special meeting Wednesday night to legislation clearing the way for a $50,000 blacktop resurfacing of East End's main thoroughfare — Pennsylvania Ave., Elizabeth St. and Harvey Ave. — from State St. to the Ohio - Pennsylvania state line.

But action was delayed temporarily on another ordinance calling for widening, resurfacing and partial relocation of Lisbon St. (State Route 267) from W. 8th St. to the city limits to allow clarification of a state requirement on parking regulations after the improvement is completed.

Both projects are scheduled to be undertaken by the State Highway Department.

With six affirmative votes required to enact the legislation for the Lisbon St. improvement, it fell one short of immediate passage. But the measure moved through the first of three required readings.

Councilman Donald Smith, who cast the lone dissenting vote, said he hopes Safety - Service Director Robert E. Vodrey can clear up the parking question with the state in order that the legislation can be presented again at the next regular meeting on July 19.

The city will contribute $40,000 toward the Lisbon St. project and $8,000 for the work on Pennsylvania Ave., Harvey Ave. and Elizabeth St.

The city's share of the Lisbon St. improvement, sought for several years, will include furnishing the preliminary plans, 20 per cent of the cost of en-

Area Youth Treated For Gunshot Wounds

An 18 - year- old Georgetown area youth was treated at City Hospital at 11:15 p.m. Wednesday for multiple gunshot wounds of the head and upper arms.

The Chippewa Barracks of the Pennsylvania state police said William Rue apparently was hit by a blast from a 16 - gauge shotgun fired by a farmer near Shippingport.

The patrol could offer no further details pending completion of its investigation.

Leaders Eye McNamara's 'Merit' Plan

Defense Chief Asks Promotions Based On Officer Ability

WASHINGTON (AP) — An effort by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to emphasize merit rather than seniority in military promotions got a cautious but generally favorable reception today among some key legislators.

"All of us subscribe to the general idea," said Rep. Porter Hardy Jr., D-Va., a high ranking member of the House Armed Services Committee. "You have to have promotion or you stifle talent in the lower ranks. Maybe he has got some good ideas. We need to know more about it."

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, top Republican on the Senate Armed Services Committee, said, "Of course we ought to make the military just as efficient and give it as good leadership as we can, but any great change in the system that has gone on over the years has to receive very careful consideration."

The Associated Press learned Wednesday that McNamara sent a June 18 memorandum to the secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force voicing "increasing concern" over the way generals and admirals are picked.

He asked the service secretaries to report by July 15 on current policies on the selection of generals and admirals, and the prospect for the next 10 years.

House Group 'Strip' Report Due Friday

By WILLIAM S. VANCE
Review Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS — Any hope of final action this week on strip-mining legislation was lost today as a House committee delayed until Friday a report on a compromise bill.

It was learned, however, that a subcommittee of the House mines and natural resources committee has recommended more than a dozen amendments to the Senate - passed bill sponsored by Sen. Edmund A. Sargus (D-Belmont).

Shrouded in secrecy, the subcommittee hearings resulted in recommendations that the proposed performance bonds be cut from $325 to $275 per acre, and that license fees be set at $15 per acre.

Rep. Clarence L. Wetzel (R-Columbiana), chairman of the full House committee, refused to disclose any information on his subcommittee's report. He told newsmen curtly that he would have a statement Friday.

Wetzel said the bill could not be brought up for committee action today because the Legislat-

U.S. Terms New Troops 'Safeguard'

8,000 Marines Put Ashore As Support In Possible Attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — The landing of 8,000 more Marines in South Viet Nam was a move to "play it safe" and strengthen U.S. forces against a possible major thrust by beefed up Communist troops, military sources said today.

The action was not prompted by any specific emergency situation, the sources said.

Intensive Communist activity in the central highlands of Viet Nam, coupled with indications that the equivalent of a North Vietnamese army division may be spread through the area, has caused concern.

If the Reds should mount an assault with seven to 10 battalions against one of the U.S. enclaves along the South China Sea coast, the sources said, they might cause considerable havoc.

It was learned that Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the top U.S. commander in Viet Nam, asked for the additional Marines from Okinawa because they could be brought in quickly. He said Wednesday that more "substantial confrontations" could be expected before long.

More Army troops are on their way to Viet Nam from the United States but are not due for a while yet.

Both military and civilian officials pointed to Westmoreland's current visit to Hawaii as an indicator that no imminent crisis is expected in Viet Nam.

They claimed there is no hidden significance to the general's trip — that it is mainly for the rest and a few days with his family in Honolulu.

City Tax Nets $179,684 In 1st 6 Months

The city income tax yielded a total of $179,684.15 in the first six months of 1965, Tax Commissioner D. G. Wilkinson said in a report filed with Council at its special meeting Wednesday night.

The report, covering the period Jan. 1-June 30, inclusive, showed the tax revenue was up $986.73 from the $178,697.42 listed in the first half of 1964.

Total receipts for 1964 were approximately $312,000, Wilkinson said.

The revenue for the first half of 1965 was comprised of $61,117.02 paid in individual returns; $88,821.82 in withholding taxes collected by employers and then turned over to the city, and $29,746.31 from business places and manufacturers, the commissioner said.

Wilkinson said he will make his next written report to Council after the close of business on Sept. 30, representing revenue for the first three quarters of the year.

However, he said information on receipts and other tax office operations may be obtained by Council whenever it wishes as "our records are open to your body at all times."

Wilkinson has made it a practice to file periodic written reports on the tax revenues since the ordinance first went into effect in 1958.

Kremlin Conflict

Signs Of Strain Seen In Soviet

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Signs of strain between reformers and conservative Communists in the Soviet Union suggest that Kremlin officialdom may be in for a new round of musical chairs.

Some of the signs:

—The Communist leadership apparently has decided to put off the party congress. Theoretically the congress is the ruling body for nearly 12 million party members and meets every four years. The last congress was October 1961.

—Four high-ranking government and Communist party leaders have been missing for five or six weeks from important official gatherings. All rose to prominence under Nikita S. Khrushchev.

—The absence of these persons may be connected with the downfall earlier this year of two other Khrushchev proteges. It could mean that powerful forces have undertaken a determined campaign to rid the party leadership of "the Ukrainians" and economic reformers who came up under Khrushchev's wing.

Almost from the day of Khrushchev's fall last October, there have been hints of a clash between the two who divided his powers: Party Chief Leonid I. Brezhnev and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin. The clash seems to stem from differences on economic reforms, the effect of such reforms on party leadership and the extent of party authority, which, in conservative opinion, should dominate every aspect of Soviet life even if it interferes with production.

Conservatives — those who distrust anything suggesting lessened central authority — have been restive in recent years.

The intrusion of other factors besides the division over economics makes it difficult to single out the members of the contending camps. But it seems likely that Brezhnev, despite his position as party chief, may be in the reformer group and Kosygin may represent the conservatives.

Southerners Hold Fate

Key Action Faces Voter Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Southern Democrats hold the key today for House Republicans who want to substitute their voting rights bill for the administration's.

If enough Southerners heed the advice of some of their leaders to vote for the GOP substitute — which they consider a lesser evil — it could be a nip-and-tuck vote, possibly late today.

House leaders think they have the votes to turn back the GOP challenge. They put the maximum strength of the Republican-Southern Democratic coalition at 200, short of the 218 majority needed. That would include about 70 Southern Democrats.

An unknown factor, however, is the impact of a speech Wednesday by Rep. William M. Tuck, D-Va., an ardent foe of any federal voting legislation. He pleaded with Southerners to support the Republican bill, which is cosponsored by House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford and Rep. William M. McCulloch of Ohio.

Tuck, a former governor of Virginia, said the Ford-McCulloch bill was "relatively moderate" compared to the administration bill sponsored by Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y.

"If we are to have any federal legislation on the subject of voting rights," Tuck said, "the McCulloch bill is far more preferable than the Celler bill, although I am opposed to both."

The major difference between the two bills is that the GOP bill would apply in any locality, but only after 25 persons have complained they were denied the right to vote. The Celler bill would take effect automatically in seven Southern states where less than 50 per cent of the adult population voted or was registered in the last election.

Kent State Praises IBOP For Donating Building

Kent State University officials today praised the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters for donating use of the union's former office building on W. 6th St. for use of some classes in the branch the university will establish here this fall.

The IBOP's action has helped make it possible for the university to assure it will launch a full schedule of classes in its first year, Kent officials said.

Six afternoon classes are scheduled to meet in the old IBOP Building, while 19 others will convene in the high school on four evenings each week.

The university singled out E. L. Wheatley, president, and the union Executive Board in thanking the IBOP for use of the structure. The union's building also is being utilized for administrative offices.

The university said in a statement: "The generosity and ready cooperation of the IBOP have permitted Kent State to begin operations during the summer and thus better prepare for the opening of fall classes.

Paratroops Push Ahead In 'D' Zone

South Viet Force Wiped Out By Reds In Trap Movement

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. paratroopers have scored heavily in a series of clashes with the Viet Cong 25 miles northeast of Saigon in the D-zone jungle, American authorities reported today. They said 25 of the guerrillas were known dead and it was estimated Red casualties Wednesday totaled more than 100.

On the other side, the Viet Cong ambushed a Vietnamese government battalion 37 miles northwest of Saigon today and a U.S. spokesman said most of the battalion apparently was wiped out.

Casualties in the ambush were not immediately known, but a survivor said they were heavy. The battalion was reported under strength and probably numbered about 300 men.

Four U.S. advisers were with the battalion, the spokesman said. Their fate was not known.

The ambush was sprung as the battalion was rushing to relieve a besieged outpost at Xom Dua in Binh Duong Province. The relief battalion was sent from the nearby district capital of Tri Tam. The Communists apparently were lying in wait for the reinforcements.

As the Viet Cong sprang the trap, Communist 81mm mortars began a barrage of Tri Tam. Results were not immediately reported.

U.S. authorities reported that paratroopers of the American 173rd Airborne Brigade fought a series of clashes with the Viet Cong Wednesday in the big combined force operation in "D" zone and enemy casualties were estimated at more than 100.

There was no report of American casualties.

The action in the Communist-controlled jungle 25 miles northeast of Saigon was the biggest engagement the paratroopers have fought since their arrival in Viet Nam in May.

Lisbon Child Struck By Car Hospitalized

LISBON—Barbara McKee, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard McKee, Lisbon R. D. 1, received a concussion and bruises and abrasions about 8:30 p. m. Wednesday when hit by a car on the square.

She was reported in fair condition today at Salem City Hospital.

Police said Barbara was hit on S. Market St., just across from the courthouse, by a car driven by Steve Korode, Lisbon R. D. 2. Officers said he told them the girl darted out in front of him. She was not in a crosswalk. Korode was not held.

Lisbon volunteer firemen took Barbara to the hospital after she was examined by a Lisbon physician. She and her brother had turned in a pop bottle for two cents at a dairy store and were returning to the home of their grandmother, Mrs. Ruth McKee, 124 W. Chestnut St., when the accident occurred.

Barbara is a sixth-grader at Wayne Local School.

Lisbon St. Bill Delayed

Blacktop Work Approved On Main East End Artery

City Council gave approval at a special meeting Wednesday night to legislation clearing the way for a $50,000 blacktop resurfacing of East End's main thoroughfare — Pennsylvania Ave., Elizabeth St. and Harvey Ave. — from State St. to the Ohio - Pennsylvania state line.

But action was delayed temporarily on another ordinance calling for widening, resurfacing and partial relocation of Lisbon St. (State Route 267) from W. 8th St. to the city limits to allow clarification of a state requirement on parking regulations after the improvement is completed.

Both projects are scheduled to be undertaken by the State Highway Department.

With six affirmative votes required to enact the legislation for the Lisbon St. improvement, it fell one short of immediate passage. But the measure moved through the first of three required readings.

Councilman Donald Smith, who cast the lone dissenting vote, said he hopes Safety - Service Director Robert E. Vodrey can clear up the parking question with the state in order that the legislation can be presented again at the next regular meeting on July 19.

The city will contribute $40,000 toward the Lisbon St. project and $8,000 for the work on Pennsylvania Ave., Harvey Ave. and Elizabeth St.

The city's share of the Lisbon St. improvement, sought for several years, will include furnishing the preliminary plans, 20 per cent of the cost of en-

House Group 'Strip' Report Due Friday

By WILLIAM S. VANCE
Review Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS — Any hope of final action this week on strip-mining legislation was lost today as a House committee delayed until Friday a report on a compromise bill.

It was learned, however, that a subcommittee of the House mines and natural resources committee has recommended more than a dozen amendments to the Senate - passed bill sponsored by Sen. Edmund A. Sargus (D-Belmont).

Shrouded in secrecy, the subcommittee hearings resulted in recommendations that the proposed performance bonds be cut from $325 to $275 per acre, and that license fees be set at $15 per acre.

Rep. Clarence L. Wetzel (R-Columbiana), chairman of the full House committee, refused to disclose any information on his subcommittee's report. He told newsmen curtly that he would have a statement Friday.

Wetzel said the bill could not be brought up for committee action today because the Legislat-

Kent State Praises IBOP For Donating Building

Kent State University officials today praised the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters for donating use of the union's former office building on W. 6th St. for use of some classes in the branch the university will establish here this fall.

The IBOP's action has helped make it possible for the university to assure it will launch a full schedule of classes in its first year, Kent officials said.

Six afternoon classes are scheduled to meet in the old IBOP Building, while 19 others will convene in the high school on four evenings each week.

The university singled out E. L. Wheatley, president, and the union Executive Board in thanking the IBOP for use of the structure. The union's building also is being utilized for administrative offices.

The university said in a statement: "The generosity and ready cooperation of the IBOP have permitted Kent State to begin operations during the summer and thus better prepare for the opening of fall classes.

Lisbon Child Struck By Car Hospitalized

LISBON—Barbara McKee, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard McKee, Lisbon R. D. 1, received a concussion and bruises and abrasions about 8:30 p. m. Wednesday when hit by a car on the square.

She was reported in fair condition today at Salem City Hospital.

Police said Barbara was hit on S. Market St., just across from the courthouse, by a car driven by Steve Korode, Lisbon R. D. 2. Officers said he told them the girl darted out in front of him. She was not in a crosswalk. Korode was not held.

Lisbon volunteer firemen took Barbara to the hospital after she was examined by a Lisbon physician. She and her brother had turned in a pop bottle for two cents at a dairy store and were returning to the home of their grandmother, Mrs. Ruth McKee, 124 W. Chestnut St., when the accident occurred.

Barbara is a sixth-grader at Wayne Local School.

Beauty And Beast Get Fall Fashion Emphasis

NEW YORK (AP) — Womanly beauty this fall may be pretty and beastly.

That was one of the secrets shared Wednesday with fashion writers here for a four-day program of fall collection previews called the American Designer Series.

Earlier, designer Jacques Tiffeau had set a primitive mood with jungle music and masked mannequins who slinked with cat-like grace in leather and velvet smocks.

Then came the true confessions by Warner's about what really goes on in the underworld of fashion.

Feline misses undulated onto the red carpet in body cinchers, bikini-like underpinnings and Tarzan-type, one-shoulder togas — all the cat's meow in tiger stripes.

More ladies, shy and demure, and at first fully clothed in conservative black, stripped to reveal their true colors — wicked red, red lingerie.

Other very personal items introduced at the show included:

—Side-button coat dresses with silk lining to match petticoats and so forth.

—Harlow nighties, bias-cut, ultra short and ruffled.

—Sweater-bras, in nude tone, rounded and slightly padded.

—The short-short slip and the petti-pant for the short-short dresses made popular by Frenchman Andre Courreges.

—The smooth-to-the-hip slip with tiers of ruffles for under the au-go-go dresses.

—Designer Geoffrey Beene followed up by sending his models onto the runway in the supple, body-clinging kind of garments that require the aforementioned kind of underpinnings.

—Brief jackets topped knife-pleated skirts, long tunic jackets slipped over reed-slim skirts. Throughout the collection were various adaptations of the smocks.

Storms Ease Across Nation

By The Associated Press

Storms tapered off today after hammering scattered sections in the Great Plains and from the Gulf Coast region to New England.

Violent thunderstorms raked many areas. A tornado hit Curriers, a farming community of 150 in western New York, damaging buildings and disrupting communications. Strong winds also damaged buildings, uprooted trees and cut power and telephone service in Chautauqua County. No injuries were reported.

Heavy rain fell in some areas in the warm and humid air from the Virginias to the east and central Gulf Coast region. Fairly heavy rain also was reported in western Pennsylvania and parts of Tennessee.

Wind gusts up to 80 m.p.h. lashed Colby, in extreme northwestern Kansas, in a severe thunderstorm. Heavy rain and strong winds also hit areas in southwestern sections of Nebraska, North Dakota and Montana.

Church Rebuilt In Village Wiped Out During Flood

KLAMATH, Calif. (AP) — This tiny logging town, wiped out in northern California's $300 million flood last Christmas week, today has its first rebuilt church — the work of volunteer strangers from 300 miles away.

The church, the Calvary Temple of the Assembly of God, was built in a week of 17-hour days by a handful of unpaid volunteers from a sister Assembly of God congregation at Oakland, Calif.

Painting will be completed this week.

This time the church was constructed on high ground, in a quiet Redwood grove where the pastor's wife hopes to face nothing worse than an occasional friendly bear.

The site lies three miles from where only bare concrete slabs attest to the location of the previous church, swept away with Klamath's three-block downtown sector and scores of homes by the Klamath River, gorged by unceasing rains and mountain runoff.

No deaths were reported in the 1,000-population community but only four buildings are left downtown — a gas station, restaurant, bait shop and market.

The pastor of the new church, the Rev. Jack Iness, said that he and his wife Betty and their children Thelma, 13, Daniel, 11, and Cheleste, 9, escaped with their lives "and nothing else."

Rep. Bolton Raps Rev. King On Viet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King's call for an immediate negotiated settlement of the Viet Nam war has drawn a cool response from several members of Congress.

Rep. Frances P. Bolton of Ohio, top ranking Republican on the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said today the civil rights leader "doesn't know what he's talking about" on the Viet Nam situation.

King suggested the United States seek such a settlement last Friday in a speech to a Virginia convention of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. He is president of the conference.

"I'm as concerned about destroying communism as the next fellow," the Nobel Peace Prize winner said. "But we aren't going to defeat communism with guns, bombs and gases."

Sen. John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., second ranking Democrat on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said King "is just as wrong as he can be in calling for a negotiated settlement regardless of what the other side might demand."

Deputies Term Girl's Rifle Death Accidental

TROY, Ohio (AP)—The Miami County Sheriff's Department said today the fatal shooting of Gloria Ann Riffle, 26, at her home near Laura Wednesday apparently was an accident.

Stiff Penalties Weighed

Ohio Senate Eyes Action On Youth Motorist Laws

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Youthful traffic law violators were the targets of measures up for final legislative approval today in the Ohio Senate.

One of the House-passed bills would require license suspensions for drag racing, reckless operation, drunken driving, or leaving the scene of an accident, and the other spells out stiff penalties for the theft of autos or auto parts.

House members scheduled votes today on a pair of bills implementing the industrial financing program approved by voters in the May 4 primary. Under one of the measures, the state could make loans up to 50 per cent for construction or expansion of industries.

Two major bills cleared the Senate Wednesday in one of the busiest floor sessions of the year. They were House-approved measures to license and regulate nursing homes and to modernize Ohio's tuberculosis program.

Partisan bickering sent down to defeat an omnibus bill to establish municipal courts in Fremont, Mason, and Vermilion and to expand the jurisdiction of municipal courts in Canton, Massillon, Cincinnati, Miamisburg, Port Clinton, and Sandusky.

Senators indicated the measure would not be reconsidered but they hinted it could be combined with a similar bill for additional Common Pleas Court judges. It was defeated last week by the House in a floor fight over amendments.

Causing defeat of the municipal court bill were a Republican amendment to establish a court in Bowling Green and an effort by Democrats to delay expansion of the Cincinnati court's jurisdiction until June 1967.

Sen. Charles W. Whalen Jr., R - Montgomery, was among sponsors of the tuberculosis bill which he said resulted from decreasing numbers of TB patients in Ohio. The bill, which now goes to the governor, would permit consolidation of the state's 20 partially filled institutions into about a dozen regional hospitals.

Other Senate - passed bills would convey land at Massillon State Hospital for relocation of Ohio 30 and permit counties to spend certain funds for planning.

Across the Statehouse, two bills went down to defeat. Both of them involved new tax proposals. Rep. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-Hamilton, would have permitted counties to submit income tax proposals to voters. His bill was rejected 54-74.

The second measure, sponsored by Rep. Michael A. Sweeney, D-Cuyahoga, and others would have permitted counties and municipalities to levy a supplemental tax on state auto license plates. It lost 46-74.

The House completed passage of bills allowing Allen County commissioners to build a road through the Ohio State branch campus at Lima and to provide highways for state-supported educational institutions.

Three Courts Collect $7,563 During June

LISBON — The three Columbiana County courts at Lisbon, Salem and East Palestine collected $7,563 during June, according to the monthly summary of Clerk of Courts Carl L. Stacey.

He said 389 criminal cases and 80 civil cases were filed in the courts last month.

Stacey said $4,931 was paid to the county treasurer from fines and costs, while the state received $2,247, representing 45 per cent of the fines in state Highway Patrol cases. The sheriff, constables and city police received fees totaling $385.

Court Gives Attorney Probation On Charges

CLEVELAND (AP) — Attorney Louis Mayer, 43, has been placed on probation for five years. He pleaded guilty to four counts of embezzlement and forgery in May.

Mayer admitted embezzling about $29,000 from estates he was handling. He told the court Wednesday that he has repaid the missing money and has resigned as an attorney.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Youthful traffic law violators were the targets of measures up for final legislative approval today in the Ohio Senate.

One of the House-passed bills would require license suspensions for drag racing, reckless operation, drunken driving, or leaving the scene of an accident, and the other spells out stiff penalties for the theft of autos or auto parts.

House members scheduled votes today on a pair of bills implementing the industrial financing program approved by voters in the May 4 primary. Under one of the measures, the state could make loans up to 50 per cent for construction or expansion of industries.

Two major bills cleared the Senate Wednesday in one of the busiest floor sessions of the year. They were House-approved measures to license and regulate nursing homes and to modernize Ohio's tuberculosis program.

Partisan bickering sent down to defeat an omnibus bill to establish municipal courts in Fremont, Mason, and Vermilion and to expand the jurisdiction of municipal courts in Canton, Massillon, Cincinnati, Miamisburg, Port Clinton, and Sandusky.

Senators indicated the measure would not be reconsidered but they hinted it could be combined with a similar bill for additional Common Pleas Court judges. It was defeated last week by the House in a floor fight over amendments.

Causing defeat of the municipal court bill were a Republican amendment to establish a court in Bowling Green and an effort by Democrats to delay expansion of the Cincinnati court's jurisdiction until June 1967.

Sen. Charles W. Whalen Jr., R - Montgomery, was among sponsors of the tuberculosis bill which he said resulted from decreasing numbers of TB patients in Ohio. The bill, which now goes to the governor, would permit consolidation of the state's 20 partially filled institutions into about a dozen regional hospitals.

Other Senate - passed bills would convey land at Massillon State Hospital for relocation of Ohio 30 and permit counties to spend certain funds for planning.

Across the Statehouse, two bills went down to defeat. Both of them involved new tax proposals. Rep. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-Hamilton, would have permitted counties to submit income tax proposals to voters. His bill was rejected 54-74.

The second measure, sponsored by Rep. Michael A. Sweeney, D-Cuyahoga, and others would have permitted counties and municipalities to levy a supplemental tax on state auto license plates. It lost 46-74.

The House completed passage of bills allowing Allen County commissioners to build a road through the Ohio State branch campus at Lima and to provide highways for state-supported educational institutions.

Three Courts Collect $7,563 During June

LISBON — The three Columbiana County courts at Lisbon, Salem and East Palestine collected $7,563 during June, according to the monthly summary of Clerk of Courts Carl L. Stacey.

He said 389 criminal cases and 80 civil cases were filed in the courts last month.

Stacey said $4,931 was paid to the county treasurer from fines and costs, while the state received $2,247, representing 45 per cent of the fines in state Highway Patrol cases. The sheriff, constables and city police received fees totaling $385.

Court Gives Attorney Probation On Charges

CLEVELAND (AP) — Attorney Louis Mayer, 43, has been placed on probation for five years. He pleaded guilty to four counts of embezzlement and forgery in May.

Mayer admitted embezzling about $29,000 from estates he was handling. He told the court Wednesday that he has repaid the missing money and has resigned as an attorney.

Executive Claimed

NEW YORK (AP)—Earle W. Webb, 82, former president and board chairman of Ethyl Corp., died Wednesday in Baden Baden, Germany, while on a European vacation, the corporation announced in New York.

Research shows that the ice cream cone was invented in an hour of desperation of a concessionaire at the St. Louis World's Fair in 1903.

Nothing Permanent, Thank You

Nothing is going to come of that 14-5 vote last May by the foreign ministers of the Organization of American States to establish an inter-American force to restore order in the Dominican Republic.

When the vote was taken, optimists thought it would lead to agreement on a permanent mechanism to allow inter-American intervention whenever public order broke down or uprisings on either the political right or left threatened to topple an existing government in the New World.

But like the United Nations, which never has been able to agree on a permanent mechanism for quelling disorder, the OAS will deal with each crisis as it comes along.

And also like the United Nations, the OAS will rely on the good offices of the United States in case of emergency, reserving the right to belabor and belather the United States for "unwarranted intervention" whenever it goes into action.

The hard fact is that the member states of the UN and the OAS do not trust one another. They do not see their way clear to reaching joint decisions. They cannot conceive of any situation in which the path of duty would be so plainly marked they could agree on it.

But they can conceive—behind their protestations of outrage—that the United States could cope with all real emergencies, leaving them free to criticize it, second-guess it, view it with alarm and fulminate against Yankee imperialism at will.

Their certainty surely must be strengthened by realization that the Johnson administration is not supersensitive about the U.S. image, as reflected in the foreign press and the official statements of foreign government.

As President Johnson demonstrated in the Dominican Republic, he will do what he believes in good conscience needs to be done and let the U.S. image be distorted to the heart's content of its critics.

Perhaps there is a "grapevine" communication system that lets Washington know it has the tacit approval of the same people who for réasons of their own must talk against it in public statements.

Look At The Map

First reaction to a proposal by Gov. Rhodes for a causeway linking Ohio via Sandusky to the nearest point on Ontario, Can., is disbelief.

But a look at the map and the realization that the engineering problems would be no tougher than problems already solved in such projects as the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel brings the proposal within easy range of possibility.

The great advantage would be easy access to Canada and vice versa. Though the road trip around the west end of Lake Erie and into Canada via Michigan is not an insuperable handicap, only a fraction as much time and mileage would be involved in a causeway journey across the west end of the lake.

It is one of those improvements of which people would say, once it had been done, "Why wasn't this done years ago?"

Gov. Rhodes has asked Highway Director P. E. Masheter to find out whether it could be done now.

Marginal Note On Freedom

In connection with its centennial this month, The Nation can point with pardonable pride to the role of a struggling magazine in the endless battle for freedom in the United States.

It is incidental that the magazine always has been at the liberal end of the American political spectrum. What is elementally important after 100 years is its consistency.

The Nation faithfully "has stirred up the animals." It has undermined complacency, questioned the unquestionable and assailed the unassailable. On many public issues it was a generation ahead of its time. And on most issues, it disagreed with whatever "establishment" was in power.

Its editors are pointing out a framed letter from President Theodore Roosevelt on the wall of the editor's office. The letter was written to another writer and says, "I see you quote The Nation as an authority. It is always possible that what The Nation says is true, but there is never any inherent probability of it, and I think it is about the most unsafe guide in American politics that there is."

Irrepressible Teddy Roosevelt never had any use for disagreement, but would anyone want to deny on The Nations centennial that the right of a free press in a free country to disagree with its political leaders is the secret of freedom, itself?

It Would Be A Fair Exchange

One of the most embarrassing things a Greek patriot can talk about is the presence in the British Museum of priceless sculptures that once adorned the Parthenon.

Known as the Elgin Marbles, after Lord Elgin, who caused them to be taken from the Parthenon and removed to England early in the 19th century, they have been a talking point for Greeks whenever the purpose was to embarrass the British.

But as others have learned, too, the British don't embarrass easily.

As far as the Elgin Marbles are concerned, they are now British. Even their name is British. As for the Greek's claim to property that undeniably belongs to Greece, the British boldly point out that they should be thanked for saving these priceless art works because otherwise they would have been ruined. The Greeks didn't really care much and the Turks, then in control, cared less.

This is probably what would have happened, all right. When Lord Elgin made off to England with the Parthenon masterpieces, Greeks were in no mood or condition to preserve these treasures. Neither were the Turks. Only the British had an eye for their permanent value. So they "liberated" them.

But the English also have a blemish on their record as conservators of priceless treasures. Even Stonehenge, that irreplaceable link with the distant past, was despoiled by nearby farmers who carted off all the movable stones for utilitarian purposes.

Since there is so little of Stonehenge left, it would be only fair to let Greece have what is left, in exchange for the Elgin Marbles, which Britain has no intention of giving back—ever. Prime Minister Harold Wilson says so, and that word, coming from a Labor party official, would seem to shut the door permanently.

No Crackdown

By Truman Twill

Everybody whose voice has a ring of authority is saying we must do something drastic to stop killing and maiming on highways.

They are saying it's high time we cut out the fiddle-faddle and come to grips with this terrible problem.

Okay, gentlemen, suppose we come to grips with it.

You cannot allow cars designed to go more than 100 miles an hour to be driven at that speed on public roads. Sooner or later, something will go wrong. It goes wrong at the Indianapolis Raceway and in the Grand Prix at Le Mans, where even professional drivers get killed and maimed.

You cannot issue licenses to dopes and expect them somehow to measure up to even a minimum safety standard. Auto drivers must be rated according to ability, like airplane pilots.

You cannot let over-the-highway truckers stay at the wheel until they lose consciousness.

You cannot permit geeks who load up on booze and barbiturates to use public highways.

You will have to bar all drivers whose hearts might fail and cause their cars to careen out of control at high speed.

Some methods will have to be found to ascertain what drivers are about to have cerebral hemorrhages, epileptic seizure and blackouts.

No one in a state of anger, frustration, or despair can be permitted to operate an auto.

Persons with suicidal thoughts must be screened out, because many horrible highway accidents are caused by drivers taking their own lives and sometimes taking one or more people with them into the hereafter.

It will have to be mandatory for every motor vehicle's tires to be examined at regular intervals and for every vehicle to be equipped with tires that will not go flat instantly in event of a blowout.

All highways carrying a traffic flow of at least 50 cars an hour will have to be divided, with a median strip and a barrier to prevent head-on collisions.

Engine failure and other mechanical faults will have to be made illegal, on pain of long-term imprisonment and heavy fines.

Mistakes of judgment and unforeseen events, such as airplanes in distress, falling rocks, sleet storms, snow storm, explosion, fires of undetermined origin, etc. will have to be outlawed.

In other words, gentlemen, you are not about to come to grips with anything except frustration. As long as automobiles are built to please the people who must buy them to keep prosperity buzzing there will be highway accidents and killing and maiming. As long as people vote, there will be no crackdown on drivers.

You have been doing a fine job of minimizing the mixups built into a crazy system of high-speed autos in the hands of low-ability operators. If you hadn't outdone yourselves, gentlemen, we'd be killing 5,000 and maiming half a million each holiday weekend.

Maybe Nobody Will Notice

Sabotage Mapped Against U.S.

By Victor Riesel

For weeks now CIA specialists have been perturbed over six days in June — from the second through seventh, to be specific.

Victor Riesel

American intelligence agents are certain that worldwide sabotage of American "war-support" factories and installations was planned at a "world labor conference" held in Hanoi, North Viet Nam, during the first days of the month.

This undermining will not be limited to U.S. plants, piers, rails and highways. The Hanoi "actionist conference" has also devised strategy for mass picketing, communication disruption, and anti-war demonstrations in "all" lands supporting the American and South Vietnamese coalition.

Lest this report be construed as CIA jitters by a public which is abandoning James Bond for the beaches, it should be recalled that the news is from the Chinese sector of the Communist polycentric world. There, they believe in guerrilla tactics in asphalt as well as monsoon-sodden green jungles.

IT WOULD BE naivete, soaked through with carelessness, to ignore the Hanoi labor conference or any of its decisions. These were made at the "International Trade Union Committee for Solidarity with the Workers and People of Viet Nam against U.S. Imperialist Aggression" parley. Typically long title. Typically Peiping Chinese, too.

There were more than 600 labor delegates in the Ba Ting public hall. They came from such distant points as Santo Domingo, Caracas, Venezuela, Panama, and the "down under" nations.

They were flown in from Leopoldville and Portugal's Angola. There were "Americans" too.

Scores of resolutions, none of them calmly couched, were passed in denunciation of the U.S. presence in Southeast Asia. Many of the documents call for a "mass movement" in "all countries" to drive the U.S. from South Viet Nam.

NOTHING was left to the imagination of the 600 delegates. Country by country they were briefed on how to implement the "vigorous mass Aid Viet Nam and Resist America movement" which the hosts said "is unfolding throughout the world." This labor conference obviously was vital to Mao's strategy. It cost the Hanoi-Peiping axis a half million dollars.

Specific examples were given the Communist labor men—some of them leaders in Western nations, some "sleepers" and "infiltrators."

The delegates were told how "workers' action" kept a former U.S. State Department official from delivering television broadcasts in Japan.

The conclave was briefed on methods used by "seamen in Melbourne (Australia) who refused to load barbed wire to be shipped to South Viet Nam because U.S. imperialism uses it to build strategic hamlets."

THE DELEGATIONS were gleefully told of action on the Japanese docks by longshoremen who refuse to load ammunition and equipment on U.S. vessels for South Viet Nam. Speeches were made on techniques of some Japanese seamen who kept seafarers off such freighters after the loading was finally completed.

There was talk of picketing and disrupting traffic and transportation in and out of American plants making munitions, napalm, helicopters, war field jeeps, special amphibious carriers, and, if possible, air craft.

Techniques were offered —but won't be reported here. Sufficient to say there are self-avowed revolutionary youth bands in the U.S. which are "romantically" attuned to Mao's guerrillaism. One such band has an annual budget of well over $100,000 a year.

Even in America, this does not grow on trees. They get it from somewhere. And they don't get it simply because some wear beards. They're ready for action as soon as they get the word.

And, judging from the "resolutions", word won't be long coming from Hanoi.

Letter To Editor

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

First of all, we want to state that we are all in favor of teenagers having a good time. Some of us aren't much more than teens ourselves.

Friday evening we watched as two young men fought violently and obviously without any respect with police officers on Mulberry St. in East End.

In the past, Maple St. has been used as a public bathroom for all to see, including very small children. The language is such grown men become embarrassed.

The traffic sign on Maple St. says 20 mph. It may as well be 90 mph. The people in East End live with this every Friday and Saturday. Can't something be done?

Although Maple St. is mentioned more, this also applies to Mulberry St., Kent St. and Locust St.

Freedom Of Religion

By David Lawrence

Antagonisms Gradually Are Vanishing

Throughout the world last week went the news item announcing that Luci Johnson, age 18, had been converted to the Roman Catholic religion. If she had not been the daughter of the President of the United States it wouldn't have been noticed. Essentially this step is a private matter—a private decision—and, in this instance, had been planned for more than five years.

David Lawrence

The episode, however, has a deep meaning for all nations. It reminds the world not only that tolerance of all religions prevails in the United States but that individual freedom of choice is recognized here by parental acquiescence. Indeed, this is no novel doctrine, as the Vedic scriptures of thousands of years ago repeatedly reiterated that the soul has no creed, caste, color, race or sex.

Religious conflicts unfortunately are still divisive of national unity in some countries and have overflowed into feeling, for example, between the Buddhists and Catholics in Viet Nam is partly responsible for the overthrow of one or more regimes in Saigon during the present turbulence.

IN THE FREE world, to be sure, the emphasis in recent years has turned toward the many things which all religions have in common. There is a growing acceptance of the view that good government cannot endure without a basic morality developed out of the religious spirit of the people.

The relations between the major churches of the world nowadays are becoming more and more friendly and reciprocal, and this is designed to remove the regrettable antagonisms that have arisen in the past. The Vatican in the last few years has been discussing with leaders of other churches in the world the common aspirations that motivate all faiths.

On Monday of this week, announcement was made in Geneva, Switzerland, that the Lutheran and Roman Catholic Churches of the world had just agreed to make their "first official contacts" in several centuries.

Two months ago, the Roman Catholic Church began conferences with the Protestant, Anglican and Orthodox Churches represented by the World Council of Churches, whose headquarters is in Geneva.

A dispatch by the UPE from that city on July 5 said that the forthcoming discussion "is centered on inter-church cooperation and unified action and on the ending of competition between the Roman Catholic and the other Christian churches."

INCIDENTALLY, this is not a new objective. Just 35 years ago in India, a profound address was delivered to the first All-Asia Education Conference by Bhagavan Das, a noted Hindu scholar, on the subject: "The Essential Unity of All Religions." It later was published throughout the world as an uncopyrighted book.

In this piece of intensive research were traced the similarities of the Judeo-Christian doctrines and those of the many religions of the world as far back as ten thousand years. It covered the religions of ancient Persia, of Arabia and of China and compared selected passages from the teachings of Moses, Jesus, Mohammed, Buddha, Confucius and the spiritual leaders of previous centuries.

The concept of a supreme being was cited as dominant in virtually all sects. To corroborate this point, the author quoted from the holy books of ancient religions and then wrote:

"The essentials are common to all religions: That truth is universal and not the monopoly of any race or teacher; that nonessentials vary with time, place, and circumstance; that the same fundamental truths have been revealed by God in different scriptures, in different languages, through different persons born in different nations. . . .

"THE GREAT teachers confirm — at most supplement, not supplant — one another."

Jesus is then quoted as having proclaimed: "I come not to destroy the law or the prophets, but to fulfill them."

Out of the similar pronouncements, the famous Hindu scholar drew this conclusion:

"So long as men and women are left, are encouraged, are even positively taught, to believe that religions differ, even in essentials, so long will they, as the followers of such different religions, also necessarily continue to differ, to quarrel, to fight, to shed each other's blood. If, on the contrary, they are led to see that all religions are one and the same —in essentials—they will also assuredly become one in heart, and feel their common humanity in loving brotherhood."

Hotter Viet War Seen

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

The war in Viet Nam is moving toward an explosion. All the signs point to it.

U.S. forces are building up. Viet Cong guerrillas are stepping up raids and attacks. The American commander, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, says more "substantial confrontations" may be expected.

That's a complicated way of saying much bigger ground fighting is in store.

Westmoreland also says the Viet Cong "are less confident of success than they were earlier."

U.S. intelligence sources believe North Viet Nam's 325th Division, starting early this year, has moved into South Viet Nam to join the Viet Cong in the fighting.

Malcolm W. Browne of The Associated Press reports from Saigon that for the past few weeks guerrilla forces of unprecedented strength have burst across the Vietnamese highlands, smashing one important post after another.

Recently, he says, thousands of South Vietnamese government forces have been killed or captured.

The more the South Vietnamese are smashed, the more U.S. forces must get involved to bail them out.

Only last week guerrillas slipped through the heavy Marine guard surrounding the Da Nang Air Base, killed one American and destroyed three U.S. planes on the ground.

And last Monday they overran the jungle outpost of Ba Gia and made off with two 105mm howitzers, the largest weapons they've captured yet, plus ammunition which, with the howitzers, may be used against Americans later.

Still, there has been no big showdown yet between the Marines and the Viet Cong or the 325th Division from North Viet Nam.

But more U.S. troops — about 8,000 Marines — are being put ashore South Viet Nam, raising American military strength there to about 60,000 men.

These don't include another 16,000 to 21,000 Marines and Army troops who, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said in mid-June, were being sent to Viet Nam.

And, while the United States builds up its ground forces, it gets deeper into the war in the air.

While President Johnson was pondering all this, he learned of more unpleasant news which sooner or later may require a decision from him.

Several Russian-built missiles sites are nearing completion in North Viet Nam near Hanoi and Haiphong. These are for surface to air missiles which can be used against bombers.

It's possible they will never be used, unless the United States attacks those two cities.

But their very presence, and the danger implicit in them, raises the question: Should the United States wipe out those missile sites before they can be used against American planes?

But that might involve the United States with Russia, more or less.

Johnson has to make the decision to bomb or lay off. But Wednesday in Congress the House Republican leader, Gerald R. Ford, said the United States should bomb the missile bases before they're ready for use.

Its editors are pointing out a framed letter from President Theodore Roosevelt on the wall of the editor's office. The letter was written to another writer and says, "I see you quote The Nation as an authority. It is always possible that what The Nation says is true, but there is never any inherent probability of it, and I think it is about the most unsafe guide in American politics that there is."

Irrepressible Teddy Roosevelt never had any use for disagreement, but would anyone want to deny on The Nations centennial that the right of a free press in a free country to disagree with its political leaders is the secret of freedom, itself?

It Would Be A Fair Exchange

One of the most embarrassing things a Greek patriot can talk about is the presence in the British Museum of priceless sculptures that once adorned the Parthenon.

Known as the Elgin Marbles, after Lord Elgin, who caused them to be taken from the Parthenon and removed to England early in the 19th century, they have been a talking point for Greeks whenever the purpose was to embarrass the British.

But as others have learned, too, the British don't embarrass easily.

As far as the Elgin Marbles are concerned, they are now British. Even their name is British. As for the Greek's claim to property that undeniably belongs to Greece, the British boldly point out that they should be thanked for saving these priceless art works because otherwise they would have been ruined. The Greeks didn't really care much and the Turks, then in control, cared less.

This is probably what would have happened, all right. When Lord Elgin made off to England with the Parthenon masterpieces, Greeks were in no mood or condition to preserve these treasures. Neither were the Turks. Only the British had an eye for their permanent value. So they "liberated" them.

But the English also have a blemish on their record as conservators of priceless treasures. Even Stonehenge, that irreplaceable link with the distant past, was despoiled by nearby farmers who carted off all the movable stones for utilitarian purposes.

Since there is so little of Stonehenge left, it would be only fair to let Greece have what is left, in exchange for the Elgin Marbles, which Britain has no intention of giving back—ever. Prime Minister Harold Wilson says so, and that word, coming from a Labor party official, would seem to shut the door permanently.

No Crackdown

By Truman Twill

Everybody whose voice has a ring of authority is saying we must do something drastic to stop killing and maiming on highways.

They are saying it's high time we cut out the fiddle-faddle and come to grips with this terrible problem.

Okay, gentlemen, suppose we come to grips with it.

You cannot allow cars designed to go more than 100 miles an hour to be driven at that speed on public roads. Sooner or later, something will go wrong. It goes wrong at the Indianapolis Raceway and in the Grand Prix at Le Mans, where even professional drivers get killed and maimed.

You cannot issue licenses to dopes and expect them somehow to measure up to even a minimum safety standard. Auto drivers must be rated according to ability, like airplane pilots.

You cannot let over-the-highway truckers stay at the wheel until they lose consciousness.

You cannot permit geeks who load up on booze and barbiturates to use public highways.

You will have to bar all drivers whose hearts might fail and cause their cars to careen out of control at high speed.

Some methods will have to be found to ascertain what drivers are about to have cerebral hemorrhages, epileptic seizure and blackouts.

No one in a state of anger, frustration, or despair can be permitted to operate an auto.

Persons with suicidal thoughts must be screened out, because many horrible highway accidents are caused by drivers taking their own lives and sometimes taking one or more people with them into the hereafter.

It will have to be mandatory for every motor vehicle's tires to be examined at regular intervals and for every vehicle to be equipped with tires that will not go flat instantly in event of a blowout.

All highways carrying a traffic flow of at least 50 cars an hour will have to be divided, with a median strip and a barrier to prevent head-on collisions.

Engine failure and other mechanical faults will have to be made illegal, on pain of long-term imprisonment and heavy fines.

Mistakes of judgment and unforeseen events, such as airplanes in distress, falling rocks, sleet storms, snow storm, explosion, fires of undetermined origin, etc. will have to be outlawed.

In other words, gentlemen, you are not about to come to grips with anything except frustration. As long as automobiles are built to please the people who must buy them to keep prosperity buzzing there will be highway accidents and killing and maiming. As long as people vote, there will be no crackdown on drivers.

You have been doing a fine job of minimizing the mixups built into a crazy system of high-speed autos in the hands of low-ability operators. If you hadn't outdone yourselves, gentlemen, we'd be killing 5,000 and maiming half a million each holiday weekend.

Maybe Nobody Will Notice

Sabotage Mapped Against U.S.

By Victor Riesel

For weeks now CIA specialists have been perturbed over six days in June — from the second through seventh, to be specific.

Victor Riesel

American intelligence agents are certain that worldwide sabotage of American "war-support" factories and installations was planned at a "world labor conference" held in Hanoi, North Viet Nam, during the first days of the month.

This undermining will not be limited to U.S. plants, piers, rails and highways. The Hanoi "actionist conference" has also devised strategy for mass picketing, communication disruption, and anti-war demonstrations in "all" lands supporting the American and South Vietnamese coalition.

Lest this report be construed as CIA jitters by a public which is abandoning James Bond for the beaches, it should be recalled that the news is from the Chinese sector of the Communist polycentric world. There, they believe in guerrilla tactics in asphalt as well as monsoon-sodden green jungles.

IT WOULD BE naivete, soaked through with carelessness, to ignore the Hanoi labor conference or any of its decisions. These were made at the "International Trade Union Committee for Solidarity with the Workers and People of Viet Nam against U.S. Imperialist Aggression" parley. Typically long title. Typically Peiping Chinese, too.

There were more than 600 labor delegates in the Ba Ting public hall. They came from such distant points as Santo Domingo, Caracas, Venezuela, Panama, and the "down under" nations.

They were flown in from Leopoldville and Portugal's Angola. There were "Americans" too.

Scores of resolutions, none of them calmly couched, were passed in denunciation of the U.S. presence in Southeast Asia. Many of the documents call for a "mass movement" in "all countries" to drive the U.S. from South Viet Nam.

NOTHING was left to the imagination of the 600 delegates. Country by country they were briefed on how to implement the "vigorous mass Aid Viet Nam and Resist America movement" which the hosts said "is unfolding throughout the world." This labor conference obviously was vital to Mao's strategy. It cost the Hanoi-Peiping axis a half million dollars.

Specific examples were given the Communist labor men—some of them leaders in Western nations, some "sleepers" and "infiltrators."

The delegates were told how "workers' action" kept a former U.S. State Department official from delivering television broadcasts in Japan.

The conclave was briefed on methods used by "seamen in Melbourne (Australia) who refused to load barbed wire to be shipped to South Viet Nam because U.S. imperialism uses it to build strategic hamlets."

THE DELEGATIONS were gleefully told of action on the Japanese docks by longshoremen who refuse to load ammunition and equipment on U.S. vessels for South Viet Nam. Speeches were made on techniques of some Japanese seamen who kept seafarers off such freighters after the loading was finally completed.

There was talk of picketing and disrupting traffic and transportation in and out of American plants making munitions, napalm, helicopters, war field jeeps, special amphibious carriers, and, if possible, air craft.

Techniques were offered —but won't be reported here. Sufficient to say there are self-avowed revolutionary youth bands in the U.S. which are "romantically" attuned to Mao's guerrillaism. One such band has an annual budget of well over $100,000 a year.

Even in America, this does not grow on trees. They get it from somewhere. And they don't get it simply because some wear beards. They're ready for action as soon as they get the word.

And, judging from the "resolutions", word won't be long coming from Hanoi.

Letter To Editor

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

First of all, we want to state that we are all in favor of teenagers having a good time. Some of us aren't much more than teens ourselves.

Friday evening we watched as two young men fought violently and obviously without any respect with police officers on Mulberry St. in East End.

In the past, Maple St. has been used as a public bathroom for all to see, including very small children. The language is such grown men become embarrassed.

The traffic sign on Maple St. says 20 mph. It may as well be 90 mph. The people in East End live with this every Friday and Saturday. Can't something be done?

Although Maple St. is mentioned more, this also applies to Mulberry St., Kent St. and Locust St.

Freedom Of Religion

By David Lawrence

Antagonisms Gradually Are Vanishing

Throughout the world last week went the news item announcing that Luci Johnson, age 18, had been converted to the Roman Catholic religion. If she had not been the daughter of the President of the United States it wouldn't have been noticed. Essentially this step is a private matter—a private decision—and, in this instance, had been planned for more than five years.

David Lawrence

The episode, however, has a deep meaning for all nations. It reminds the world not only that tolerance of all religions prevails in the United States but that individual freedom of choice is recognized here by parental acquiescence. Indeed, this is no novel doctrine, as the Vedic scriptures of thousands of years ago repeatedly reiterated that the soul has no creed, caste, color, race or sex.

Religious conflicts unfortunately are still divisive of national unity in some countries and have overflowed into feeling, for example, between the Buddhists and Catholics in Viet Nam is partly responsible for the overthrow of one or more regimes in Saigon during the present turbulence.

IN THE FREE world, to be sure, the emphasis in recent years has turned toward the many things which all religions have in common. There is a growing acceptance of the view that good government cannot endure without a basic morality developed out of the religious spirit of the people.

The relations between the major churches of the world nowadays are becoming more and more friendly and reciprocal, and this is designed to remove the regrettable antagonisms that have arisen in the past. The Vatican in the last few years has been discussing with leaders of other churches in the world the common aspirations that motivate all faiths.

On Monday of this week, announcement was made in Geneva, Switzerland, that the Lutheran and Roman Catholic Churches of the world had just agreed to make their "first official contacts" in several centuries.

Two months ago, the Roman Catholic Church began conferences with the Protestant, Anglican and Orthodox Churches represented by the World Council of Churches, whose headquarters is in Geneva.

A dispatch by the UPE from that city on July 5 said that the forthcoming discussion "is centered on inter-church cooperation and unified action and on the ending of competition between the Roman Catholic and the other Christian churches."

INCIDENTALLY, this is not a new objective. Just 35 years ago in India, a profound address was delivered to the first All-Asia Education Conference by Bhagavan Das, a noted Hindu scholar, on the subject: "The Essential Unity of All Religions." It later was published throughout the world as an uncopyrighted book.

In this piece of intensive research were traced the similarities of the Judeo-Christian doctrines and those of the many religions of the world as far back as ten thousand years. It covered the religions of ancient Persia, of Arabia and of China and compared selected passages from the teachings of Moses, Jesus, Mohammed, Buddha, Confucius and the spiritual leaders of previous centuries.

The concept of a supreme being was cited as dominant in virtually all sects. To corroborate this point, the author quoted from the holy books of ancient religions and then wrote:

"The essentials are common to all religions: That truth is universal and not the monopoly of any race or teacher; that nonessentials vary with time, place, and circumstance; that the same fundamental truths have been revealed by God in different scriptures, in different languages, through different persons born in different nations. . . .

"THE GREAT teachers confirm — at most supplement, not supplant — one another."

Jesus is then quoted as having proclaimed: "I come not to destroy the law or the prophets, but to fulfill them."

Out of the similar pronouncements, the famous Hindu scholar drew this conclusion:

"So long as men and women are left, are encouraged, are even positively taught, to believe that religions differ, even in essentials, so long will they, as the followers of such different religions, also necessarily continue to differ, to quarrel, to fight, to shed each other's blood. If, on the contrary, they are led to see that all religions are one and the same —in essentials—they will also assuredly become one in heart, and feel their common humanity in loving brotherhood."

Hotter Viet War Seen

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

The war in Viet Nam is moving toward an explosion. All the signs point to it.

U.S. forces are building up. Viet Cong guerrillas are stepping up raids and attacks. The American commander, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, says more "substantial confrontations" may be expected.

That's a complicated way of saying much bigger ground fighting is in store.

Westmoreland also says the Viet Cong "are less confident of success than they were earlier."

U.S. intelligence sources believe North Viet Nam's 325th Division, starting early this year, has moved into South Viet Nam to join the Viet Cong in the fighting.

Malcolm W. Browne of The Associated Press reports from Saigon that for the past few weeks guerrilla forces of unprecedented strength have burst across the Vietnamese highlands, smashing one important post after another.

Recently, he says, thousands of South Vietnamese government forces have been killed or captured.

The more the South Vietnamese are smashed, the more U.S. forces must get involved to bail them out.

Only last week guerrillas slipped through the heavy Marine guard surrounding the Da Nang Air Base, killed one American and destroyed three U.S. planes on the ground.

And last Monday they overran the jungle outpost of Ba Gia and made off with two 105mm howitzers, the largest weapons they've captured yet, plus ammunition which, with the howitzers, may be used against Americans later.

Still, there has been no big showdown yet between the Marines and the Viet Cong or the 325th Division from North Viet Nam.

But more U.S. troops — about 8,000 Marines — are being put ashore South Viet Nam, raising American military strength there to about 60,000 men.

These don't include another 16,000 to 21,000 Marines and Army troops who, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said in mid-June, were being sent to Viet Nam.

And, while the United States builds up its ground forces, it gets deeper into the war in the air.

While President Johnson was pondering all this, he learned of more unpleasant news which sooner or later may require a decision from him.

Several Russian-built missiles sites are nearing completion in North Viet Nam near Hanoi and Haiphong. These are for surface to air missiles which can be used against bombers.

It's possible they will never be used, unless the United States attacks those two cities.

But their very presence, and the danger implicit in them, raises the question: Should the United States wipe out those missile sites before they can be used against American planes?

But that might involve the United States with Russia, more or less.

Johnson has to make the decision to bomb or lay off. But Wednesday in Congress the House Republican leader, Gerald R. Ford, said the United States should bomb the missile bases before they're ready for use.

Officers Nab Man In Crash On Park Way

A 29-year-old St. Clair Township man was taken into custody by police Wednesday night after a truck struck a county-owned highway sign and damaged shrubbery in a mishap on Park Way at Anderson Blvd., officers reported.

James R. Lisk of Stagecoach Rd. was charged with leaving the scene of an accident as an aftermath of the Beechwood crash at 8:36 p.m., police said.

Officers said a truck southbound on Park Way hit the county - owned road sign and then damaged shrubbery at a home owned by Frank Bosco at the intersection.

Bosco attempted unsuccessfully to stop the vehicle, but obtained a license number which he turned over to the police department, officers said.

There was no damage to the 1958 model three-quarter-ton truck registered in Lisk's name, officers said.

Patrolman Samuel E. Hayes, who investigated, said Lisk admitted he was the driver of the vehicle after he was taken into custody.

Lisk was fined $25 and costs after he pleaded guilty to the hit-skip charge this morning before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff. He declined an offer of a continuance to allow him to obtain counsel.

The investigating officer was called to the bench to explain the circumstances. Bosco also related details of the incident to the court.

In response to a question, Bosco told the judge: "There was no damage I cannot repair myself," but he said he would like to have some help from Lisk. He said the road sign already has been straightened. The truck dislodged a big stone which had been placed at the opening of a storm sewer, he said.

Assessment Enacted On New Street Lights

Council gave approval Wednesday night to the annual assessment ordinance providing for the charges which owners of business district property will pay as their share of the cost of a new fluorescent street-lighting system installed late in 1963.

The ordinance provides for a charge of $1.35 per front foot, against a maximum allowable assessment of $1.68 per foot. The overall amount to be assessed is $7,800.29. It represents the difference between the annual charge for the former incandescent lights and the new fixtures.

The legislation directs Council Clerk Lawrence Applegate to compute the individual assessments and file a report with Council. It provides property owners may pay the charges in cash within 30 days after July 12. Unpaid assessments then will be certified to County Auditor Kenneth Bell for collection on the tax duplicate.

City Crew Cuts Grass In Interchange Areas

A street department crew manning a tractor with a seven-foot cutter bar today began the task of mowing high weeds and grass on large plots of open ground in the Freeway interchange areas in West End.

The equipment was leased to the city in 1964 by Harry Unkerfer, Minerva equipment dealer, but is being utilized for the first time this season.

Seeking to purchase mowing equipment to keep street and freeway rights-of-way clear, the city took sealed bids Tuesday. Unkerfer, the only bidder, offered the equipment at $3,500, but only $3,000 had been appropriated for the purchase. Council has indicated it will make $500 more available so that Unkerfer's bid can be accepted.

Assessment Enacted On New Street Lights

Council gave approval Wednesday night to the annual assessment ordinance providing for the charges which owners of business district property will pay as their share of the cost of a new fluorescent street-lighting system installed late in 1963.

The ordinance provides for a charge of $1.35 per front foot, against a maximum allowable assessment of $1.68 per foot. The overall amount to be assessed is $7,800.29. It represents the difference between the annual charge for the former incandescent lights and the new fixtures.

The legislation directs Council Clerk Lawrence Applegate to compute the individual assessments and file a report with Council. It provides property owners may pay the charges in cash within 30 days after July 12. Unpaid assessments then will be certified to County Auditor Kenneth Bell for collection on the tax duplicate.

City Crew Cuts Grass In Interchange Areas

A street department crew manning a tractor with a seven-foot cutter bar today began the task of mowing high weeds and grass on large plots of open ground in the Freeway interchange areas in West End.

The equipment was leased to the city in 1964 by Harry Unkerfer, Minerva equipment dealer, but is being utilized for the first time this season.

Seeking to purchase mowing equipment to keep street and freeway rights-of-way clear, the city took sealed bids Tuesday. Unkerfer, the only bidder, offered the equipment at $3,500, but only $3,000 had been appropriated for the purchase. Council has indicated it will make $500 more available so that Unkerfer's bid can be accepted.

Calcutta Firefighter 'Fair' From Burns

Robert Barker of Longvue Heights, Calcutta, was in "fair" condition today at City Hospital with burns of the body suffered when a roof fell on him while he was helping fight the fire that destroyed a two - story frame house on the Turkana Farms near Calcutta Wednesday morning.

Barker, a member of the Calcutta volunteer fire department, suffered first, second and third degree burns of the face, arms, knees and back. He was admitted yesterday at 10 a. m.

gineering, right-of-way and construction and 100 per cent of the cost of any necessary relocation of utility lines.

As a companion measure to the consent ordinance for the East End resurfacing, Council enacted legislation providing for an $8,000 bond issue to help finance the city's share.

The improvement will extend well over two miles, giving a new surface to all of East End's major thoroughfare from the foot of the "Hill Rd." to the state line. The new blacktop will be approximately an inch and a half in thickness, the legislation provides.

The work on Pennsylvania Ave. will cover 5,650 lineal feet of the thoroughfare 40 feet wide and a 1,584-foot stretch which is 36 feet in width. Elizabeth St.'s 898-foot length is 35 feet wide and Harvey Ave.'s 4,699 feet is 32 feet wide, the ordinance says.

The three streets are a link in State Route 39, which joins with Pennsylvania Route 68 at the state line — the main Midland - East Liverpool road.

In addition to the widening and resurfacing, the Highway Department project calls for easing some of the sharp curves on the stretch of Lisbon St. between W. 8th St. and Pleasant Heights.

The Lisbon St. improvement has been sought by the city for several years. Municipal and Highway Department officials conferred on the question many times, finally coming to an agreement early this year.

The city already has provided $20,000 of its share of the Lisbon St. improvement. The state requested that half be provided in 1965 and that the balance be appropriated in 1966.

Five of the six members cast affirmative votes on the Lisbon St. ordinance. They were Councilmen Donald Hancock, Robert W. Sample, James Cunningham and Floyd Murray.

Smith objected to a clause that says the city will "prohibit parking at all times within the limits of the improvement."

"I think the director should contact the Highway Department to see if these parking regulations can be made clearer," he said. "There's an awful lot of parking on Lisbon St. now."

"I think you will find that this is the standard consent form required by the state," President George E. Willshaw said. "The state does not wish to work a hardship on the city."

Sampl said the project calls for resurfacing of the existing pavement. If that is true, he said, parking will not be banned from any section of the street where it is now permitted. He pointed out that all the parking on Lisbon St. now is along a cinder berm that parallels the pavement, but which is not part of the road.

"I don't see how it will change the situation as it is now," he said.

Following the vote on the ordinance, Willshaw ruled it had received first reading only.

Field surveys already have started for a third major project — a $275,000 ramp to tie together the two sections of W. 9th St. made into a dead - end with the construction of the California Hollow Freeway stretch.

The city's share of the ramp project will be $12,500, represented by the detailed plans and specifications for which the municipality will foot the bill. The engineering firm of W. E. Quicksall & Associates of New Philadelphia already has started field work for the surveys.

The major share of the cost of the auto - pedestrian ramp will be paid by the state and the Federal Bureau of Public Roads. The state and the federal government cooperated in the original freeway construction, which led to W. 9th St. being chopped in two at the site of former Chestnut St.

ive Service Commission was unable to incorporate the amendments into the bill in time for the hearing.

Sargus said he will refuse to accept a reduction in the performance bond below $300. If he is unable to convince the committee, he said he will see that an amendment is offered on the House floor.

Both the bond and license fee figures are in line with those recommended by coal industry spokesmen during the hearings on the proposed legislation.

The Sargus bill proposed a $10 license fee. Another bill sponsored by Rep. Walph Fisher (R-Wayne), which also is being considered by the committee, proposed a $20 fee.

Fire Claims 6 At Hamlet In West Virginia

WAR, W. Va. (AP) — A fire early today in the tiny McDowell County, coalfield community of Hartwell claimed the lives of six persons, five of them children.

Authorities said the victims were Peggy Wilson, 24, her brother Hubert Wilson, 14, and her children; Annette, 5; Sharon 4; Janette, 8; and James, 1.

They all apparently were asleep in Mrs. Wilson's home when the blaze broke out just after midnight, sheriff's deputies said.

The fire was reported by Willy Wilson, Mrs. Wilson's father, who lived nearby. But because of the rural, isolated location of Hartwell, it was about two hours before effective fire fighting equipment reached the home. The wooden structure had been destroyed by then.

Hartwell is located about six miles north of War and has a population of about 500.

contribution to the community welfare is emphasized dramatically in the savings brought to East Liverpool area parents. To be specific, courses at the Kent Branch will cost $14 per credit hour, plus a small library and audio visual aids fee. The full-time student will reap an additional saving because he pays a blanket fee of $132 for 10 to 18 credit hours of work.

"This means that the fulltime center student will cut his first year costs by two - thirds over his campus counterpart. In other words, the branch student will be able to complete a year of college at a cost of less than $500."

The university said there has been an "overwhelming response" to a survey it made to determine student needs. More than 400 expressed definite interest in the program. The response signifies the need for the program in East Liverpool, the university commented.

Kent officials pointed out the IBOP's contribution of the use of its building "will be of incalculable benefit to prospective students throughout the district" by providing additional needed classroom and administrative space and at the same time helping reduce the operating costs of the branch here.

By helping hold down the cost of operating the university classes, the IBOP contribution will help provide higher education at reduced cost to the students, the Kent State officials said.

The university's statement continued: "The true value of the IBOP's contribution in East Liverpool may never be fully determined, for in addition to enriching the life of the community, college enriches the life of the student. This defies measurement.

"Indeed, the IBOP truly can be proud of the opportunity it has helped create in the East Liverpool Branch of Kent State University."

After establishing the office location, Kent State appointed Mrs. Carol Chaffee of East Liverpool as educational secretary to handle initial inquiries by interested students. She formerly was a secretary - receptionist and a substitute teacher.

John G. Hedrick was appointed resident director of the East Liverpool branch, effective July 1, completing the administrative staff. He was named by the Kent State Board of Trustees.

A graduate of Kent State and Notre Dame, he received his bachelor's degree in education in 1957 and his master's degree in English in 1958. Now a resident of North Canton, he was an English instructor in the Canton Academic Center. Active in the Canton Players Guild, he recently wrote a play which was presented by the Goodyear Theater in Akron.

He will oversee the university's faculty here and a program which will contain a full freshman curricula in the Colleges of Arts and Sciences. Business Administration and Education.

The afternoon classes which will be held at the IBOP Building here: Remedial English; Freshman English I; History of Civilization I; History of United States; Introduction to Physical Science, and Fundamentals of Speech.

Classes which will meet each Monday and Wednesday evening at the high school are: Introduction to Elementary Education; Introduction to Child Study; Freshman English I; Introduction to English Literature I; History of Civilization I; History of United States (formative period); Introduction to Business Administration; Introduction to Physical Science; Introduction to Government (Political Science), and Fundamentals of Speech.

Classes which will meet each Tuesday and Thursday evening at the High School are: Art Survey; General Biology; Development of American Economy; Freshman English I; Health — Principles and Practices; Freshman Mathematics; Arithmetic for Teachers; Music Fundamentals, and General Psychology.

$15 Bond Forfeited In Charge At Lisbon

LISBON — Victoria T. Rush, 33, of Cleveland, arrested Wednesday night for a traffic light violation, forfeited a $15 appearance bond in mayor's court.

Vernon L. Powell, 18, of Lisbon R. D. 1, charged with failure to stop in an assured clear distance after an accident Tuesday afternoon, posted a $15 appearance bond. Police said he told them he would forfeit.

Court Defers Action In Old Traffic Case

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff today deferred imposition of a penalty after convicting a St. Clair Township man on a seven - month - old traffic violation in downtown East Liverpool.

Earl Shamp of the Calcutta-Smiths Ferry Rd. was convicted after hearing on a charge that he backed a motor vehicle "without exercising vigilance not to injure properly legally on the street."

The charge was filed by Mrs. Margaret George, 944 Bank St., alleging the violation occurred on Jan. 13. She testified her auto was parked on E. 5th St. near Crook Alley and Shamp's car bumped her auto as the St. Clair Township man attempted to maneuver into a parking space. She said the side of her compact auto was damaged by a tail light of Shamp's car.

After finding Shamp guilty, the judge continued his case for sentencing until Wednesday, July 21. The court instructed Shamp to contact his insurance company about settlement of a $71.79 claim for the alleged damage to Mrs. George's car.

Shamp originally was brought before the judge on the charge July 1. He pleaded not guilty and was released on a $32.50 bond pending the hearing today.

Two men were before the court on old charges of driving without operator's permits.

In a case dating back to June 19, Arnold Smith, 117 W. 2nd St., was ordered to pay the court costs. He had pleaded guilty to the count June 21 following his arrest at W. 8th and Jefferson Sts. and the case had been continued to allow him to obtain a permit. He produced the permit in court this morning.

ive Service Commission was unable to incorporate the amendments into the bill in time for the hearing.

Sargus said he will refuse to accept a reduction in the performance bond below $300. If he is unable to convince the committee, he said he will see that an amendment is offered on the House floor.

Both the bond and license fee figures are in line with those recommended by coal industry spokesmen during the hearings on the proposed legislation.

The Sargus bill proposed a $10 license fee. Another bill sponsored by Rep. Walph Fisher (R-Wayne), which also is being considered by the committee, proposed a $20 fee.

Fire Claims 6 At Hamlet In West Virginia

WAR, W. Va. (AP) — A fire early today in the tiny McDowell County, coalfield community of Hartwell claimed the lives of six persons, five of them children.

Authorities said the victims were Peggy Wilson, 24, her brother Hubert Wilson, 14, and her children; Annette, 5; Sharon 4; Janette, 8; and James, 1.

They all apparently were asleep in Mrs. Wilson's home when the blaze broke out just after midnight, sheriff's deputies said.

The fire was reported by Willy Wilson, Mrs. Wilson's father, who lived nearby. But because of the rural, isolated location of Hartwell, it was about two hours before effective fire fighting equipment reached the home. The wooden structure had been destroyed by then.

Hartwell is located about six miles north of War and has a population of about 500.

Kent

contribution to the community welfare is emphasized dramatically in the savings brought to East Liverpool area parents. To be specific, courses at the Kent Branch will cost $14 per credit hour, plus a small library and audio visual aids fee. The full-time student will reap an additional saving because he pays a blanket fee of $132 for 10 to 18 credit hours of work.

"This means that the fulltime center student will cut his first year costs by two - thirds over his campus counterpart. In other words, the branch student will be able to complete a year of college at a cost of less than $500."

The university said there has been an "overwhelming response" to a survey it made to determine student needs. More than 400 expressed definite interest in the program. The response signifies the need for the program in East Liverpool, the university commented.

Kent officials pointed out the IBOP's contribution of the use of its building "will be of incalculable benefit to prospective students throughout the district" by providing additional needed classroom and administrative space and at the same time helping reduce the operating costs of the branch here.

By helping hold down the cost of operating the university classes, the IBOP contribution will help provide higher education at reduced cost to the students, the Kent State officials said.

The university's statement continued: "The true value of the IBOP's contribution in East Liverpool may never be fully determined, for in addition to enriching the life of the community, college enriches the life of the student. This defies measurement.

"Indeed, the IBOP truly can be proud of the opportunity it has helped create in the East Liverpool Branch of Kent State University."

After establishing the office location, Kent State appointed Mrs. Carol Chaffee of East Liverpool as educational secretary to handle initial inquiries by interested students. She formerly was a secretary - receptionist and a substitute teacher.

John G. Hedrick was appointed resident director of the East Liverpool branch, effective July 1, completing the administrative staff. He was named by the Kent State Board of Trustees.

A graduate of Kent State and Notre Dame, he received his bachelor's degree in education in 1957 and his master's degree in English in 1958. Now a resident of North Canton, he was an English instructor in the Canton Academic Center. Active in the Canton Players Guild, he recently wrote a play which was presented by the Goodyear Theater in Akron.

He will oversee the university's faculty here and a program which will contain a full freshman curricula in the Colleges of Arts and Sciences, Business Administration and Education.

The afternoon classes which will be held at the IBOP Building here: Remedial English; Freshman English I; History of Civilization I; History of United States; Introduction to Physical Science, and Fundamentals of Speech.

Classes which will meet each Monday and Wednesday evening at the high school are: Introduction to Elementary Education; Introduction to Child Study, Freshman English I; Introduction to English Literature I; History of Civilization I; History of United States (formative period); Introduction to Business Administration; Introduction to Physical Science; Introduction to Government (Political Science), and Fundamentals of Speech.

Court Defers Action In Old Traffic Case

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff today deferred imposition of a penalty after convicting a St. Clair Township man on a seven - month - old traffic violation in downtown East Liverpool.

Earl Shamp of the Calcutta-Smiths Ferry Rd. was convicted after hearing on a charge that he backed a motor vehicle "without exercising vigilance not to injure property legally on the street."

The charge was filed by Mrs. Margaret George, 944 Bank St., alleging the violation occurred on Jan. 13. She testified her auto was parked on E. 5th St. near Crook Alley and Shamp's car bumped her auto as the St. Clair Township man attempted to maneuver into a parking space. She said the side of her compact auto was damaged by a tail light of Shamp's car.

After finding Shamp guilty, the judge continued his case for sentencing until Wednesday, July 21. The court instructed Shamp to contact his insurance company about settlement of a $71.79 claim for the alleged damage to Mrs. George's car.

Shamp originally was brought before the judge on the charge July 1. He pleaded not guilty and was released on a $32.50 bond pending the hearing today.

Two men were before the court on old charges of driving without operator's permits.

In a case dating back to June 19, Arnold Smith, 117 W. 2nd St., was ordered to pay the court costs. He had pleaded guilty to the count June 21 following his arrest at W. 8th and Jefferson Sts. and the case had been continued to allow him to obtain a permit. He produced the permit in court this morning.

Statue Stirs Controversy

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Untouched by the controversy surrounding her, "Diana of the Woods" stands smiling in the mall of the new multimillion-dollar Maricopa County government complex.

Dedicated Wednesday the stone sculpture gave pause to countless admirers, despite the charges that as the huntress of Greek mythology, she was "a cruel goddess" and a killer.

Mrs. Gilbert Hall donated the Italian-made sculpture placed in the complex's fountain and dedicated it to the Arizona Humane Society.

The animal crusaders of Arizona opposed the gesture from the start.

"Humane societies have always opposed cruelty, including blood sports," said Betty B. Eilers, the group's executive secretary.

"Not even the human side of Diana is pleasant," she said.

"When the son of a king surprised her bathing, she turned him into a stag and wasn't satisfied or revenged until his own hounds ran him down and tore him to bits," Mrs. Eilers said.

Undaunted, Mrs. Hall didn't budge an inch.

"Good art not only gives pleasure," Mrs. Hall said, "but it also stimulates an appreciation for the beautiful."

Not so, said Mrs. Eilers, who made her group's view known to the county supervisors.

The supervisors sided with Mrs. Hall, agreeing that Diana would give pleasure to visitors to the recently dedicated complex.

Mrs. Hall admits the tempest was something of an ordeal before it blew over.

"A hideous experience and one I don't want to go through again," she said. "They claimed Diana was a killer. Why, in Italy, Diana is known as a protectress and there is a festival each year in her name."

Blaze Extinguished In Truck Of Florist

The hose and wiring of a truck owned by Ray Clendenning Florist were damaged Wednesday afternoon when a heater hose broke and allowed antifreeze solution to drop onto the engine and ignite.

PRESCRIPTION PRICES

How are prescription prices determined? We have a policy in this matter which we believe to be ethical and fair. We do not offer bargains in prescriptions—there is no cut-rate way to health. Nor do we pretend to under-sell. Prescription prices simply are determined by the cost of the ingredients and operating expense. The prices we charge are as low as good professional service and effective drugs will allow. It will be a privilege to serve you.

At Echo Dell Program

Enjoy Primitive Camping

Authentic primitive camping is being enjoyed by the above group of Jr Hi girls at the first week of camping sponsored by the East Liverpool Area Camp Fire Girls, Inc., at Camp Echo Dell.

Armed with a basic set of tools and tents, the girls have constructed a comfortable camp site. The group includes Cynthia Stoy, Betsy Welker, Colleen Fitzgerald, Jan Williams, Barbara Skeen, Robin and Sue Sprouse, Macile Rippeth and Martha Rogers.

UNDER THE direction of Mrs. Charles Lang, their unit leader, the group is living, cooking and sleeping in the woods and learning many survival skills.

In other sections of the camp, Blue Birds and Camp Fire Girls are learning to explore and enjoy nature. Seven units of girls, each under the supervision of counselors, assisted by program aides, have selected camp homes, which have quickly acquired such personal touches as unit flags, featuring their names, owners sticks, weather calendars, etc.

Groups of girls are blazing trails, planning cookouts and working on projects for Indian Day, which is being held on the Friday afternoon of each weekly session. Three weeks of camp is being conducted and will be climaxed by a ceremonial camp fire July 23. All campers will be invited to return with their families, when recognition certificates will be presented for camp honors earned.

MRS. ALICE RODGERS, camp director, points out that camping "is an integral part of the recreational, educational and development of the program of Camp Fire Girls. In meeting these essentials, Camp Echo Dell is helping each girl to learn to live happily and responsible with others; to develop democratic attitudes, and offering them healthful out-of-doors experience." Mrs. Rose Keuper, assistant camp director, supervises the activities of the Junior Counselors and program aides.

Special activities will include a performance by the Indian dance team of Boy Scout Troop 19 of Wellsville, with Jack Glover, scoutmaster, and instructions by David Scholtz of New Philadelphia, farm forester of the Ohio Division of Forestry, in tree and plant identification and conservation observances.

Permanent identification tags will be made and attached by Jr Hi and Horizon Club girls. Fire safety precautions were given by Don Parsons, fire chief of the St. Clair Township department. He was assisted by Fireman Charles Simpson.

ALL CAMP personnel received a health check by Mrs. Norman Scott, camp nurse. A chartered bus transports the campers.

This week's counselors include Mrs. Elsie Pethtel, Mrs. Almeda Smith, Mrs. Paddy Lang, Mrs. Jean Stoy, Miss Anna Campbell, Miss Carol McKinnon and Miss Debby Gregg.

Jr Hi counselors and program aides are Sharyn Cook, Francie Keuper, Debbie Arrington, Laura Snediker, Odelia Douglas, Mary Carr, Sherry Tyson, Nancy Hull, Shelly Fulmer, Nancy Hood, Patricia Neal, Judy Kountz and Liz Rodgers.

The second session of campers will begin 9:30 Monday morning. Parents are invited to visit the camp during the regular camp hours of 9:30 until 3 and special invitations are extended for the weekly Indian Day and the closing ceremonial campfire.

29 Penalized In Youth Riot

GENEVA, Ohio (AP) — Stiff fines and a stern lecture marked the court session involving 29 persons arrested in connection with holiday rioting at nearby Geneva-on-the-Lake early Sunday.

Winner Awaited In Plane Derby

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) —Weary officials and an overworked computer looked forward to the celebrations today as the 19th annual Powder Puff Derby headed toward a grand finale.

Seventy-one planes, their female pilots and a white French poodle Wednesday completed the 2,400-mile air race from El Cajon, Calif., to Chattanooga. Locked in a tight race for the crown were a Florida investment broker and a seven-time Powder Puff champion from California.

The winner had been due to receive her trophy Wednesday night, but a large number of last-day arrivals caused officials to give up trying to figure the complicated handicap scores.

A computor will figure the winner on a complicated formula involving only actual flying time and the rated ability of the individual planes.

Top Autoist Pins Safety Record On Defense Driving

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — A 27-year-old test driver who drives an average of 400 miles each work day and who has driven 500,000 miles on public roads without an accident says you may live longer if you don't trust the other driver.

Lowell Roseborough, who has test driven all types of cars during his five years with the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. here, said Wednesday he thinks "defensive driving" has helped him complete his accident-free-record.

He called defensive driving "an attitude of mind". He said it is the ability to avoid accidents in spite of poor driving conditions and wrong actions by other drivers.

Roseborough said he thinks impatience and inexperience at high-speed driving were partly responsible for Ohio's 36 traffic deaths over the July 4 weekend.

His safe-driving tips include:
—Use seat belts while driving.
—Don't tail gate or follow the car ahead too closely.
—Dim headlights when approaching an on-coming car or when a car passes.

OSU Restudies Gag Rule Policy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State University trustees meet today to take a new look at the school's controversial speakers rule.

The trustees met just a few hours after receiving a new report from the Faculty Advisory Committee, reportedly urging changes in the rule which allows President Novice G. Fawcett to bar controversial speakers from campus engagements.

The faculty committee's discussion with trustees Wednesday night was not made public. But the committee said on May 29 it thinks provisions preventing "subversive" speakers should be eliminated.

Trustees have given no public indication how they will react.

Fawcett said he would not make a recommendation, unless he felt compelled to do so. He has said previously he favors a new rule.

The rule has come under fire from both students and faculty members.

A campus group, the Free Speech Front, led a number of demonstrations against the rule, including an all night sit-in at the university administration building April 28.

Statue Stirs Controversy

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Untouched by the controversy surrounding her, "Diana of the Woods" stands smiling in the mall of the new multimillion-dollar Maricopa County government complex.

Dedicated Wednesday the stone sculpture gave pause to countless admirers, despite the charges that as the huntress of Greek mythology, she was "a cruel goddess" and a killer.

Mrs. Gilbert Hall donated the Italian-made sculpture placed in the complex's fountain and dedicated it to the Arizona Humane Society.

The animal crusaders of Arizona opposed the gesture from the start.

"Humane societies have always opposed cruelty, including blood sports," said Betty B. Eilers, the group's executive secretary.

"Not even the human side of Diana is pleasant," she said.

"When the son of a king surprised her bathing, she turned him into a stag and wasn't satisfied or revenged until his own hounds ran him down and tore him to bits," Mrs. Eilers said.

Undaunted, Mrs. Hall didn't budge an inch.

"Good art not only gives pleasure," Mrs. Hall said, "but it also stimulates an appreciation for the beautiful."

Not so, said Mrs. Eilers, who made her group's view known to the county supervisors.

The supervisors sided with Mrs. Hall, agreeing that Diana would give pleasure to visitors to the recently dedicated complex.

Mrs. Hall admits the tempest was something of an ordeal before it blew over.

"A hideous experience and one I don't want to go through again," she said. "They claimed Diana was a killer. Why, in Italy, Diana is known as a protectress and there is a festival each year in her name."

Blaze Extinguished In Truck Of Florist

The hose and wiring of a truck owned by Ray Clendenning Florist were damaged Wednesday afternoon when a heater hose broke and allowed antifreeze solution to drop onto the engine and ignite.

Patrolman Paul Burson Jr. used an extinguisher from his police cruiser to put out the blaze before firemen arrived at the W. 8th St. underpass. The truck was being operated by Fred Yonz. The alarm was received at 1:26 p. m.

At Echo Dell Program

Enjoy Primitive Camping

Authentic primitive camping is being enjoyed by the above group of Jr Hi girls at the first week of camping sponsored by the East Liverpool Area Camp Fire Girls, Inc., at Camp Echo Dell.

Armed with a basic set of tools and tents, the girls have constructed a comfortable camp site. The group includes Cynthia Stoy, Betsy Welker, Colleen Fitzgerald, Jan Williams, Barbara Skeen, Robin and Sue Sprouse, Macile Rippeth and Martha Rogers.

UNDER THE direction of Mrs. Charles Lang, their unit leader, the group is living, cooking and sleeping in the woods and learning many survival skills.

In other sections of the camp, Blue Birds and Camp Fire Girls are learning to explore and enjoy nature. Seven units of girls, each under the supervision of counselors, assisted by program aides, have selected camp homes, which have quickly acquired such personal touches as unit flags, featuring their names, owners sticks, weather calendars, etc.

Groups of girls are blazing trails, planning cookouts and working on projects for Indian Day, which is being held on the Friday afternoon of each weekly session. Three weeks of camp is being conducted and will be climaxed by a ceremonial camp fire July 23. All campers will be invited to return with their families, when recognition certificates will be presented for camp honors earned.

MRS. ALICE RODGERS, camp director, points out that camping "is an integral part of the recreational, educational and development of the program of Camp Fire Girls. In meeting these essentials, Camp Echo Dell is helping each girl to learn to live happily and responsible with others; to develop democratic attitudes, and offering them healthful out-of-doors experience." Mrs. Rose Keuper, assistant camp director, supervises the activities of the Junior Counselors and program aides.

Special activities will include a performance by the Indian dance team of Boy Scout Troop 19 of Wellsville, with Jack Glover, scoutmaster, and instructions by David Scholtz of New Philadelphia, farm forester of the Ohio Division of Forestry, in tree and plant identification and conservation observances.

Permanent identification tags will be made and attached by Jr Hi and Horizon Club girls. Fire safety precautions were given by Don Parsons, fire chief of the St. Clair Township department. He was assisted by Fireman Charles Simpson.

This week's counselors include Mrs. Elsie Pethtel, Mrs. Almeda Smith, Mrs. Paddy Lang, Mrs. Jean Stoy, Miss Anna Campbell, Miss Carol McKinnon and Miss Debby Gregg.

Jr Hi counselors and program aides are Sharyn Cook, Francie Keuper, Debbie Arrington, Laura Snediker, Odelia Douglas, Mary Carr, Sherry Tyson, Nancy Hull, Shelly Fulmer, Nancy Hood, Patricia Neal, Judy Kountz and Liz Rodgers.

The second session of campers will begin 9:30 Monday morning. Parents are invited to visit the camp during the regular camp hours of 9:30 until 3 and special invitations are extended for the weekly Indian Day and the closing ceremonial campfire.

29 Penalized In Youth Riot

GENEVA, Ohio (AP) — Stiff fines and a stern lecture marked the court session involving 29 persons arrested in connection with holiday rioting at nearby Geneva-on-the-Lake early Sunday.

Judge Howard T. Warner of Western Ashtabula County Court received 21 pleas of guilty or no contest at the session Wednesday. The other eight persons pleaded innocent and will be tried at a later date.

Fines ranged from $15 and costs to $100 and costs on charges of disorderly conduct or malicious destruction of property. One man, Wilbur E. Bliss, 30, of Ashtabula, was fined $150 and costs on both charges and received a 10-day jail sentence.

Thirteen were fined $50 and costs for disorderly conduct. Five were fined $25 and costs for the same charge.

More than 300 persons were arrested over the holiday weekend.

Judge Warner said he thought most of college-age persons he had seen in the courtroom "have no respect for the law and law officers."

Edward G. Kemerait, Geneva-on-the-Lake police chief, said one of the defendants told him after the hearing:

"That was the best $50 worth of fun I ever had. See you next year."

Rights Group Slates March For Bogalusa

BOGALUSA, La. (AP) — Civil rights advocates have renewed their protests against racial segregation in Bogalusa and a segregationist group says it will hold counter-rallies.

A predominantly Negro group of 350 paraded in rain through nearly empty streets Wednesday to kick off the new wave of demonstrations.

Negro leaders say they'll march again today.

The National States Rights party, headquartered at Montgomery, Ala., distributed leaflets saying it would hold a counter - rally tonight, "and every night until the Communists, beatniks, and other race-mixing groups have been defeated in their brazen attempt to take over the white Christian community of Bogalusa."

A federal judge in New Orleans was expected to issue his ruling late today on a request by Bogalusa civil rights groups for an injunction against city authorities for allegedly interfering with demonstrations.

A spokesman for the Bogalusa Civil and Voters League, affiliated with the Congress of Racial Equality, said CORE's national director, James Farmer, would return here to help direct the renewed campaign.

Bogalusa became a racial hot spot in the spring when Negroes began protests. The town, located on the Louisiana-Mississippi border northeast of New Orleans, had been a center of Ku Klux Klan activity.

The demonstrations subsided when Negro Deputy Sheriff Oneal Moore was shot to death while driving in a patrol car near Bogalusa on June 2.

Truck's Blaze Causes Dancing By Elephants

CONCORD, Mass. (AP) — The fire wasn't serious, but it gave some elephants the hot foot.

A blaze flared up Wednesday in the wheel bearings and tires of a truck containing four elephants of the Clyde Beatty-Cole Bros. Circus.

While firemen battled flames, the truck's metal floor got hot and the pachyderms began to dance.

After the fire was doused, workers opened the cages and freed the elephants.

Laborer Helps Save 4 In Crash Then Disappears

UNIONTOWN, Ala. (AP)—A Negro laborer—the only one of about 30 spectators to respond to a state trooper's plea for aid in pulling four people from an automobile which had plunged into a creek—disappeared from the scene after he made the dramatic rescue.

"I don't know what happened to him," said Lt. R.E. Ethridge of the highway patrol. "But I wanted the old man to get credit for this because he was the only one who would help me."

Ethridge said William Henry Fitts of Faunsdale, Ala., rushed into the creek and wrenched open the door of the automobile which had landed upside down in the water, pinning three children and a man inside.

A baby was thrown clear of the car and its mother managed to crawl out. All six persons, Negroes, were hospitalized in Demopolis where they are listed in serious condition.

Ethridge said Fitts crawled inside the car and handed the children out. The trooper said two of the children were completely submerged and had stopped breathing, but were revived with resuscitators en route to the hospital.

Negro leaders say they'll march again today.

The National States Rights party, headquartered at Montgomery, Ala., distributed leaflets saying it would hold a counter - rally tonight, "and every night until the Communists, beatniks, and other race-mixing groups have been defeated in their brazen attempt to take over the white Christian community of Bogalusa."

A federal judge in New Orleans was expected to issue his ruling late today on a request by Bogalusa civil rights groups for an injunction against city authorities for allegedly interfering with demonstrations.

A spokesman for the Bogalusa Civil and Voters League, affiliated with the Congress of Racial Equality, said CORE's national director, James Farmer, would return here to help direct the renewed campaign.

Bogalusa became a racial hot spot in the spring when Negroes began protests. The town, located on the Louisiana-Mississippi border northeast of New Orleans, had been a center of Ku Klux Klan activity.

The demonstrations subsided when Negro Deputy Sheriff Oneal Moore was shot to death while driving in a patrol car near Bogalusa on June 2.

Truck's Blaze Causes Dancing By Elephants

CONCORD, Mass. (AP) — The fire wasn't serious, but it gave some elephants the hot foot.

While firemen battled flames, the truck's metal floor got hot and the pachyderms began to dance.

After the fire was doused, workers opened the cages and freed the elephants.

Laborer Helps Save 4 In Crash Then Disappears

UNIONTOWN, Ala. (AP)—A Negro laborer—the only one of about 30 spectators to respond to a state trooper's plea for aid in pulling four people from an automobile which had plunged into a creek—disappeared from the scene after he made the dramatic rescue.

"I don't know what happened to him," said Lt. R.E. Ethridge of the highway patrol. "But I wanted the old man to get credit for this because he was the only one who would help me."

Ethridge said William Henry Fitts of Faunsdale, Ala., rushed into the creek and wrenched open the door of the automobile which had landed upside down in the water, pinning three children and a man inside.

A baby was thrown clear of the car and its mother managed to crawl out. All six persons, Negroes, were hospitalized in Demopolis where they are listed in serious condition.

Ethridge said Fitts crawled inside the car and handed the children out. The trooper said two of the children were completely submerged and had stopped breathing, but were revived with resuscitators en route to the hospital.

Invasion Of Green Bugs Enlivens Council Session

Council's midnight special session Wednesday was enlivened by hundreds of unwelcome visitors — tiny green bugs that flew in through the unscreened windows, buzzed around the lights and pestered councilmen and the two spectators on hand.

It was the annual appearance of the insects, which always molest the councilmen during at least one session in the hot, humid July weather. They appear on an annual schedule just as mysteriously as the 17-year locust and disappear just as promptly.

City Hall's casement type windows are unscreened, giving the bugs free play. They flocked around the fluorescent lights in the caucus room by the hundreds as the councilmen met prior to the regular session to discuss the pending legislation.

For some reason, the invas- chamber was not so heavy, but dozens of the insects kept the councilmen busy alternately swatting and scratching.

The insects have gnat - like green bodies and opaque wings, with a bite like that of a tiny mosquito.

Councilman Donald Hancock took official cognizance of the unwelcome visitors.

"Mr. President, I think the clerk should buy an aerosol bug bomb before our next meeting," he commented.

In Discussing Absence

'Not Shirking My Duties,' Hancock Advises Council

Discussing his absence from a scheduled special session Tuesday night that did not materialize, Councilman Donald Hancock told Council Wednesday night he is not shirking his duties because he was defeated in a bid for renomination at the May primaries.

Five of the seven members reported for the scheduled special meeting Tuesday night. With Hancock and William Davis, the Fourth Ward member absent Council called off the session and reset it for 11:15 last night, pointing out at least six affirmative votes were required to enact legislation immediately.

Hancock was working the 3-11 p. m. shift Tuesday at the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co. Davis, contacted at his home by telephone by fellow councilmen, said he "could not make it."

Davis also was absent Wednesday night. He and Hancock, both Democrats, lost bids for new terms in the primaries.

"The story in the newspaper was all right as far as it went, but it didn't go far enough," Hancock told his fellow councilmen last night. "It made it look like Davis and Hancock are shirking their duties because they were defeated."

Hancock said the public should have been told about Rule 25 in Council's book of rules which says that the mayor or any three members of Council may call a special meeting on 12 hours' notice.

"I have missed only two meetings in the last 18 months that I can recall," Hancock said. "I don't miss meetings unless I am working and it is impossible to trade turns. Davis got 15 minutes' notice, but I got no notice at all."

President George E. Willshaw remarked to Hancock that the special meeting actually was scheduled at Council's regular session on June 21, more than two weeks ahead of the date on which it was to be held.

"That's correct and I told you at the time I couldn't be here," Hancock replied.

Hancock also discussed an amendment he sought to make in an ordinance enacted last month authorizing the administration to acquire the former Hazel Laughlin property on W. 5th St. and convert it to an off-street parking lot.

He pointed out that he voted in favor of the ordinance with the understanding that Council could consider an amendment later changing a clause that gave Safety - Service Director Robert E. Vodrey the right to buy parking meters for the lot.

He said he requested legislation to amend the ordinance, but it has not been presented.

"I feel we should get an amendment to buy automatic meters for the lots," he said. "If not, I am going to give more thought to the purchase of these lots."

Man Hospitalized After 2 Cars Hit At Cannons Mills

A Newell man was hospitalized and two other persons injured in an auto accident Wednesday at 11:15 p.m. on Route 30 at Cannons Mills.

The State Highway Patrol at Lisbon said the collision involved cars operated by Herbert H. Jolley, 61, of 56 2nd St., Newell, and Robert Charles Humphrey, 17, of 1831 Anderson Blvd.

Humphrey slowed to make a left turn and was hit in the rear by the Jolley car, officers reported. Humphrey's 1952 sedan was demolished, while heavy damage resulted to Jolley's 1965 sedan.

Jolley was cited for failure to stop in the assured clear distance.

Two passengers in the Humphrey car were treated at the hospital. Mary Humphrey, 18, daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Humphrey, 323 E. 8th St., suffered contusions of the left eyelid, leg and scalp. Thomas Gordon, 18, of Pennsylvania Ave. Ext. received abrasions of the left elbow and lacerations of the scalp.

Humphrey complained of soreness in the back, but was not treated.

Senate Sets Review Of Dominican Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP)—Closed hearings on the U.S. involvement in the Dominican Republic will start next Wednesday before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Chairman J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said the first witness will be Undersecretary of State Thomas C. Mann, President Johnson's top adviser on Latin-American affairs.

Radio City Music Hall in New York City seats 6,200.

'Sit-In' Held By Father In Help Dispute

CLEVELAND (AP)—The unemployed father of a Newark, N. J., family of seven who staged a "welfare sit-in" was to try to work out a solution to his family's problems today with welfare officials.

John Vespucci, 38, his wife and five small children sat on a bench outside the Cuyahoga County (Cleveland) prosecutor's office Wednesday for nine hours.

Vespucci vowed to remain until the county welfare department assisted his family, despite regulations that a year's residence is required before the family can qualify for assistance.

At the end of the day, however, he accepted an offer from welfare authorities to spend the night with his family at the Salvation Army, with the welfare department paying the bill.

The Vespucci family arrived in Cleveland last October, Vespucci said, after being forced out of a Newark housing inspector's job for "political reasons." He worked for a Cleveland rug cleaning firm until last February, when he injured his back.

The Vespuccis were sent back to Newark at county welfare expense after he lost his job here. They returned Wednesday in Vespucci's badly-worn car, without money or a home.

"I'm a human being," Vespucci told newsmen at the criminal courts building. "The welfare people can't treat us like animals."

Officers Investigate Attempted Store Entry

Police made an investigation Wednesday afternoon into an attempted burglary of Jackson's Market, 2078 Lisbon St., owned by Lawrence R. Jackson of Sherwood Ave.

Officers were notified about 2 p.m. that an unsuccessful entry attempt was made between 6 p.m. Tuesday and 10 a.m. yesterday. The would-be intruder attempted to pry glass from the door, officers said.

Meanwhile, Robert Howard, 147 N. Surrey Rd., Fisher Park, filed a report Wednesday night at 9:40 that $15 in half dollars and seven silver dollars were taken from his home by a thief who entered through an unlocked door some time between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Monday.

Dodd Raps Help For Egypt, Cites Anti-Semiticism

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas J. Dodd said today the United States is making a tragic mistake in resuming surplus food shipments to Egypt without demanding a halt to what Dodd called President Gamal Abdel Nasser's anti-Jewish hate campaign.

Dodd, who helped prosecute Nazi war criminals at Nuremburg, said in a speech prepared for delivery in the Senate that the Egyptian propaganda campaign against the Jews is the most malevolent since the Hitler years.

In Discussing Absence

'Not Shirking My Duties,' Hancock Advises Council

Discussing his absence from a scheduled special session Tuesday night that did not materialize, Councilman Donald Hancock told Council Wednesday night he is not shirking his duties because he was defeated in a bid for renomination at the May primaries.

Five of the seven members reported for the scheduled special meeting Tuesday night. With Hancock and William Davis, the Fourth Ward member absent Council called off the session and reset it for 11:15 last night, pointing out at least six affirmative votes were required to enact legislation immediately.

Hancock was working the 3-11 p. m. shift Tuesday at the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co. Davis, contacted at his home by telephone by fellow councilmen, said he "could not make it."

Davis also was absent Wednesday night. He and Hancock, both Democrats, lost bids for new terms in the primaries.

"The story in the newspaper was all right as far as it went, but it didn't go far enough," Hancock told his fellow councilmen last night. "It made it look like Davis and Hancock are shirking their duties because they were defeated."

Hancock said the public should have been told about Rule 25 in Council's book of rules which says that the mayor or any three members of Council may call a special meeting on 12 hours' notice.

"I have missed only two meetings in the last 18 months that I can recall," Hancock said. "I don't miss meetings unless I am working and it is impossible to trade turns. Davis got 15 minutes' notice, but I got no notice at all."

President George E. Willshaw remarked to Hancock that the special meeting actually was scheduled at Council's regular session on June 21, more than two weeks ahead of the date on which it was to be held.

"That's correct and I told you at the time I couldn't be here," Hancock replied.

Hancock also discussed an amendment he sought to make in an ordinance enacted last month authorizing the administration to acquire the former Hazel Laughlin property on W. 5th St. and convert it to an off-street parking lot.

He pointed out that he voted in favor of the ordinance with the understanding that Council could consider an amendment later changing a clause that gave Safety - Service Director Robert E. Vodrey the right to buy parking meters for the lot.

He said he requested legislation to amend the ordinance, but it has not been presented.

"I feel we should get an amendment to buy automatic meters for the lots," he said. "If not, I am going to give more thought to the purchase of these lots."

Man Hospitalized After 2 Cars Hit At Cannons Mills

A Newell man was hospitalized and two other persons injured in an auto accident Wednesday at 11:15 p.m. on Route 30 at Cannons Mills.

The State Highway Patrol at Lisbon said the collision involved cars operated by Herbert H. Jolley, 61, of 56 2nd St., Newell, and Robert Charles Humphrey, 17, of 1831 Anderson Blvd.

Humphrey slowed to make a left turn and was hit in the rear by the Jolley car, officers reported. Humphrey's 1952 sedan was demolished, while heavy damage resulted to Jolley's 1965 sedan.

Jolley was cited for failure to stop in the assured clear distance.

Two passengers in the Humphrey car were treated at the hospital. Mary Humphrey, 18, daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Humphrey, 323 E. 8th St., suffered contusions of the left eyelid, leg and scalp. Thomas Gordon, 18, of Pennsylvania Ave. Ext. received abrasions of the left elbow and lacerations of the scalp.

Humphrey complained of soreness in the back, but was not treated.

Senate Sets Review Of Dominican Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP)—Closed hearings on the U.S. involvement in the Dominican Republic will start next Wednesday before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Chairman J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said the first witness will be Undersecretary of State Thomas C. Mann, President Johnson's top adviser on Latin-American affairs.

Radio City Music Hall in New York City seats 6,200.

'Sit-In' Held By Father In Help Dispute

CLEVELAND (AP)—The unemployed father of a Newark, N. J., family of seven who staged a "welfare sit-in" was to try to work out a solution to his family's problems today with welfare officials.

John Vespucci, 38, his wife and five small children sat on a bench outside the Cuyahoga County (Cleveland) prosecutor's office Wednesday for nine hours.

Vespucci vowed to remain until the county welfare department assisted his family, despite regulations that a year's residence is required before the family can qualify for assistance.

At the end of the day, however, he accepted an offer from welfare authorities to spend the night with his family at the Salvation Army, with the welfare department paying the bill.

The Vespucci family arrived in Cleveland last October, Vespucci said, after being forced out of a Newark housing inspector's job for "political reasons." He worked for a Cleveland rug cleaning firm until last February, when he injured his back.

The Vespuccis were sent back to Newark at county welfare expense after he lost his job here. They returned Wednesday in Vespucci's badly-worn car, without money or a home.

"I'm a human being," Vespucci told newsmen at the criminal courts building. "The welfare people can't treat us like animals."

Officers Investigate Attempted Store Entry

Police made an investigation Wednesday afternoon into an attempted burglary of Jackson's Market, 2078 Lisbon St., owned by Lawrence R. Jackson of Sherwood Ave.

Officers were notified about 2 p.m. that an unsuccessful entry attempt was made between 6 p.m. Tuesday and 10 a.m. yesterday. The would-be intruder attempted to pry glass from the door, officers said.

Meanwhile, Robert Howard, 147 N. Surrey Rd., Fisher Park, filed a report Wednesday night at 9:40 that $15 in half dollars and seven silver dollars were taken from his home by a thief who entered through an unlocked door some time between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Monday.

Budget Hearing Held, But Without Audience

City Auditor Lawrence J. Zollinger Wednesday conducted the public hearing required by law on the municipal budget for 1966, but not a single citizen appeared to learn the data on the fiscal document.

Zollinger and E. Allan McKeever, his chief deputy, were the only two persons in the auditor's office when the time for the hearing arrived. The auditor was not expecting an audience. In a quarter century, the budget hearing rarely has attracted interested spectators.

The figures now will be certified to the County Budget Commission at Lisbon, which will certify officially the amounts the city may appropriate for next year.

Fringe Benefits Of City Workers To Be Discussed

Council agreed Wednesday night to meet in caucus session July 19 at 7 p. m. to discuss fringe benefits requested by unionized city employes.

Council made the pledge last night to three representatives of Local 677, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes. The union was represented by Ken McCarty, president, Mrs. Catherine Martin and Robert Kelly.

The union spokesmen recalled that Council promised to give consideration to requests for fringe benefits for workers after enacting legislation for a general pay boost about two months ago. They asked what decision had been reached.

The councilmen replied that the requests have been discussed, but no decisions have been arrived at. Citing one point, the union spokesmen said they feel clarification is needed on the ambiguous wording of an ordinance on vacation time and pay for salaried workers.

The July 19 caucus will precede Council's regular meeting at 8.

The Army Air Forces were started Aug. 1, 1907, as the Aeronautical Division of the Signal Corps.

New Plan Eyed For School Aid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A new formula for allocating $7.4 million in federal vocational education funds to Ohio school districts will be presented to the State Board of Education at its meeting next Monday.

State vocational education director Byrl Shoemaker said the new formula was drafted after consideration was given to suggestions made by Cleveland School Supt. Paul Briggs in a letter that split the state board last month.

Briggs criticized department of education philosophy in dividing the federal funds among school districts.

Viet Professor Plans Return For Peace Bid

TORONTO (AP) — Vo Tranh Minh, who went on a 10-dav hunger strike outside U.N. headquarters in New York two years ago, says he is returning to Viet Nam after 16 years of self-imposed exile.

Dr. Vo, a university professor in French Indochina until he left in 1949, said Wednesday night he would try "to create a good atmosphere for negotiations" in both South and North Viet Nam.

Dr. Vo said he would leave in about 10 days and go to Phnom Pehn, capital of Cambodia, to assess the situation in Viet Nam.

School Board Sets Budget

An operating budget of $623,303 for the 1965-66 school term was approved by the Southern Beaver County Joint School Board at a meeting Tuesday night at the high school near Hookstown.

This is an increase of $59,563 over the last term's figures of $563,740, according to Victor Thomas, supervising principal.

The chief expenditures will be: Instruction, $305,310; debt service, $128,300; transportation, $70,195, and operations, $44,050.00.

In other action, the board awarded cafeteria milk contracts to the Country Bell Dairy of Pittsburgh and the Hobbs Dairy of Georgetown.

Clarence R. Scott, treasurer of the Greene Township district, was elected treasurer of the jointure and the Mellon Bank and Trust Co. was named as the school depository.

Resignations were accepted from four teachers — Dan M. Frasier, history teacher and assistant football and basketball coach; Joseph Druzisky, English and history instructor, and Miss Annette Wehner and Miss Rebecca Gatho, both commercial instructors.

David McKenzie, president, presided. The next regular meeting will be Aug. 2.

Longevity Can Depend On Where One Lives

WASHINGTON (AP) — Where you are born has a lot to do with how long you can expect to live, a government study shows.

For white persons, the west-north central states give the best prospect for long life. For nonwhites, the Pacific states are best, said the report by the U.S. Public Health Service.

Slayer Shot Self In Spree At Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH — Leroy Scott, who set off a gun battle which claimed three lives Tuesday, apparently killed himself as police officers closed in on him in a wooded area of Hazelwood, authorities said today.

Autopsy and ballistic reports indicate he died of wounds from a .22 caliber rifle he carried in the spree which brought death to a police officer and the father of his 16-year-old girlfriend.

Police reports following the confusion of the incident, indicated Scott had slain Patrolman Coleman McDonough and Aaron Godfrey, 59, father of Linda Godfrey, then was killed when police closed in upon him a few hours later.

However, ballistic studies show Godfrey died from a bullet fired accidentally by a police officer in the shooting, and Scott apparently turned his rifle upon himself.

Patrolman Joseph Laffey, 34, remained in "critical" condition at Montefiore Hospital with chest wounds received when Scott fired at him as he approached the Godfrey home to investigate a reported disturbance. Scott had been warned by Godfrey to stay away from his daughter.

Civil Disobedience Termed Invalid Under Democracy

CHICAGO (AP) — The concept of "righteous civil disobedience" to achieve civil rights or other goals is "incompatible with the American legal system and society," says an American Bar Association official.

Morris I. Leibman, chairman of the organization's Committee on Education Against Communism said in an article published in the current issue of the American Bar Association Journal: "I cannot accept the right to disobey when the law is not static and effective channels for change are constantly available."

The journal is the official journal for the bar association's 120,000 member-lawyers.

A leader in the civil rights movement, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., is an advocate of passive civil disobedience. Such demonstrations, King said Wednesday in Chicago, become "a weapon dramatizing the evils of injustice." He was here to confer with leaders of a continuing demonstration protesting alleged de facto racial segregation in the city's public schools.

Leibman, a Chicago lawyer, argued that the concepts of "freedom now" and "righteous civil disobedience" are "semantic traps and only add heat to the problems of freedom and justice for all."

He said: "'Freedom now' is an illusion. The desire for self-expression can be satisfied only in an atmosphere of freedom, and freedom is not an absolute. It exists only within the confines of the necessary restraining measures of society."

Another Journal article said the laws of India do not condone all the passive resistance practices used by the late Mohandas K. Gandhi in leading that country to independence from Britain.

Trustees Hit Litchfield On Pitt Finances

PITTSBURGH — The University of Pittsburgh's request for $2.5 million from the state appears headed for legislative approval, but some of the financial operations of the university under Chancellor Edward Litchfield were labeled "a pipedream" by school trustees at a public hearing Wednesday.

The House Appropriations Committee conducted the hearing as part of a study of the financial plight of the huge university which seeks the funds to meet payrolls.

Committee chairman Rep. Martin Mullen said he is confident the Legislature will take the strings off the funds and will follow with another $2.5 allocation.

Frank Denton, university trustee, said Chancellor Litchfield's financial forecasts were concocted in "a pipedream," and that his budgeting "got completely out of hand."

Denton, head of a committee set up two years ago to find out why Pitt is consistently short of cash, said the Chancellor is energetic, vigorous and optimistic but fails to be realistic about budgetary matters.

Fringe Benefits Of City Workers To Be Discussed

Council agreed Wednesday night to meet in caucus session July 19 at 7 p. m. to discuss fringe benefits requested by unionized city employes.

Council made the pledge last night to three representatives of Local 677, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes. The union was represented by Ken McCarty, president, Mrs. Catherine Martin and Robert Kelly.

The union spokesmen recalled that Council promised to give consideration to requests for fringe benefits for workers after enacting legislation for a general pay boost about two months ago. They asked what decision had been reached.

The councilmen replied that the requests have been discussed, but no decisions have been arrived at. Citing one point, the union spokesmen said they feel clarification is needed on the ambiguous wording of an ordinance on vacation time and pay for salaried workers.

The July 19 caucus will precede Council's regular meeting at 8.

New Plan Eyed For School Aid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A new formula for allocating $7.4 million in federal vocational education funds to Ohio school districts will be presented to the State Board of Education at its meeting next Monday.

State vocational education director Byrl Shoemaker said the new formula was drafted after consideration was given to suggestions made by Cleveland School Supt. Paul Briggs in a letter that split the state board last month.

Briggs criticized department of education philosophy in dividing the federal funds among school districts.

Viet Professor Plans Return For Peace Bid

TORONTO (AP) — Vo Tranh Minh, who went on a 10-day hunger strike outside U.N. headquarters in New York two years ago, says he is returning to Viet Nam after 16 years of self-imposed exile.

Dr. Vo, a university professor in French Indochina until he left in 1949, said Wednesday night he would try "to create a good atmosphere for negotiations" in both South and North Viet Nam.

Dr. Vo said he would leave in about 10 days and go to Phnom Pehn, capital of Cambodia, to assess the situation in Viet Nam.

Out Of The Air

BY JOHN HORN

Major Trend In Television

"The biggest single major trend of the 1966-67 television season," as Michael H. Dann spots it, "is the extension of the weekly program to bi- and tri-weekly exposure."

Dann should know. As CBS-TV programming vice president, he is in the middle of planning for season after next. This fall's programs are already tumbling off the assembly line.

"More than 20 per cent of the new show submissions for next year," he said, "leave room for more than one program a week.

"THIS DOES NOT encompass just family drama" (his euphemism for soap opera) "but also Westerns, situation comedy, contemporary action and other dramatic forms."

The trend was begun by ABC-TV's "Peyton Place," which last season started as a weekly double exposure and went to three-a-week a fortnight ago. Next season NBC's "Dr. Kildare" is splitting to two half hours on successive nights.

Even though CBS' attempt in the field—the two-part soap, "Our Private World"—has been vetoed by ratings. Dann's enthusiasm for multi-part prime-time drama is undimmed.

"A successful show will be almost as successful in a second exposure," he says. "Besides, the trend answers one of the big questions the industry faces —shortage of new shows. One of the ways to meet it is two or three-parters every week."

A GOOD INDICATION of serial popularity, Dann claims, is that next season "without exception all dramatic forms on CBS-TV plan two - parters. They're fast becoming a staple."

He pointed out that continued stories, in two or more episodes, have had a record of continued success over the last few seasons, in "Lassie," "The Defenders," "Ben Casey" and "Dr. Kildare."

It's conceivable that some series may go to five programs a week Dann said, but CBS has no such plans. Three a week, he thought, might be the more likely outer limit.

"The trend is a major retreat from the half-hour and hour dramatic unit," Dann noted. "If it continues, the hour may be variety."

PRODUCER Arthur Rabin believes he's blazing new trails with his series of nine half-hour programs on "The History of the Negro People" from African origin to three-continent importance.

"Scholarship has been weak exploring this area," he said, "and we're cutting through some new ground."

The series has been two years in the making. It will be telecast over the National Educational Television network beginning the week of Oct. 10.

Ossie Davis will host and narrate the series. He also has written the program, "Slavery." It is one of two dramas and will feature Davis, his wife Ruby Dee and the choral group, "Voices, Inc." The other drama, "Free at Last," was written by Rabin and James Benjamin.

NOVELIST John A. Williams, whose most recent book is "This Is My Country, Too," has written a program, too. An exploration of American Negro ties with Africa, filmed in Nigeria.

Three programs are on tape and six on film. They were shot in Africa, Latin America and the United States, with one program, Rabin said, examining the reported racial paradise of Brazil.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, July 8, the 189th day of 1965. There are 176 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1835, the Liberty Bell in Philadelphia was cracked as it was being tolled to mark the death of Chief Justice John Marshall.

On this date

In 1896, William Jennings Bryan made his famous "Cross of Gold" speech before the Democratic National Convention in Chicago.

In 1900, United States forces were sent to China to suppress the Boxer Rebellion

In 1889, John L. Sullivan defeated Jake Kilrain in the 75th round. This was the last bare-knuckle fight for the heavyweight championship.

In 1889, New York City's Polo Grounds was opened, the Giants beating Pittsburgh, 7-5.

Ten years ago—Violent fighting was under way in northern Laos between government forces and Communist-supported rebels.

Five years ago— Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba restored peace temporarily in Leopoldville by agreeing to dismiss most white officers and build an army of Congolese.

One year ago — Communist China and Romania agreed to extend their scientific and technical cooperation — a move interpreted as evidence Romania would be more independent of Russia.

Bringing Up A Family

By Dr. GARRY MYERS

Family Benefits By Planning Summer

Some planning during the summer for several children, say from 3 to 12, may make them happier, and their mother's burden lighter. Otherwise, they may get bored and the whole family may become weary and wrought up. In a kind of family council, the children might help in a general daily plan for each week or longer. Certainly the child from 6 to 12 should share in the household chores.

Dr. Garry Myers

Each child should know exactly what his home jobs will be and be held responsible for doing them.

The child should make his own bed and tidy up his own room if he has a room alone. He should help, or take turns in tidying up if he shares a room. The children should help every morning in clearing away the breakfast dishes, tidying up the kitchen and other rooms.

AS A rule, all these things should be done before the child leaves the house. Even if each child has a definite job and may do it when he feels like it, he may keep putting it off, or not do it at all. When all these duties are done the first thing after breakfast, they can be checked. Besides these little jobs may not seem so much of a hardship if all the children work at them at about the same time.

In the planning by the family together, one or two children should be counted on to help prepare lunch or do it alone. These same ones or others may tidy up the place after lunch. Of course, all should be on hand at lunch and dinnertime.

The plans each day should provide for one or two children to help to prepare the family dinner, those to remove things from the table after dinner and those to do, or help do, the kitchen work after dinner. Instead of doing all or most of this work themselves, the parents may need only to supervise and make sure each child fulfills his responsibilities.

OFTEN IN the family plan, one of the older children might assist in the necessary family shopping for dinner or for several days. He or she might even plan, shop and carry through preparation of the family meal.

The daily family plan should provide for a quiet period in the afternoon when, as a rule, all the children would be home with no playmates in. This period of a few hours should be quiet enough that the mother and other adults might relax or sleep; certainly with no shouting, romping or roughhouse.

The children under five or six should be required to be quiet in bed for at least one hour. If they keep quiet then, they usually will go to sleep. It's no time for radio or TV.

The children over five or six might play some quiet non-running games at this period. Provided with ample books and children's magazines, they should be encouraged to read.

IN SOME instances each child from 8 to 12 should be required to read for half an hour or an hour during this afternoon quiet period. Just imagine the growth of reading skills throughout our nation if those children able to read were to do so daily all summer.

While it might not be desirable for each child to have every hour of his summer day planned, his sharing at making a general plan and following it through reasonably well should make his summer days fairly happy and profitable for him and his whole family.

MOSCOW (AP)—The head of the Indonesian Communist party, D.N. Aidit, has arrived in Moscow for talks with Soviet leaders.

Young Magsaysay made his move Wednesday after failing by a narrow margin to win the Nacionalista nomination for Congress in his district. He is hoping for the Liberal nomination.

LONDON (AP) — Two anonymous letters signed "J" have been received threatening to "destroy" Queen Elizabeth II when she visits Northamptonshire Friday, police there report.

Both letters, which were sent to newspapers, warned the public to stay away from the town of Higham Ferrers when the queen meets local officials.

Firms' Part In Fund Drive To Be Pushed

Oren O. Todd, plan chairman of the United Funds of Beaver County, said a brochure entitled "A Progressive Firm Is A Community Leader" has been sent to more than 650 county firms with five or more employers urging that they enroll as United Fund chapters in support of this fall's campaign to raise $864,490.

Todd explained that to become a UF Chapter, a firm and their employes must agree to conduct an in-company United Fund campaign in line with the following six principles: (1) One corporate pledge for all services eligible for United Fund support; (2) One annual solicitation, and that for the United Fund; (3) a year - around payroll deduction plan or coordinated plan of direct pledging; (4) a campaign among salaried management personnel planned by executive officers of the firm; (5) company personnel permitted to work on the campaign on company time; (6) all pledges collected by the chapter firm remitted directly to the United Funds.

Todd noted that 325 firms and their employes supported the chapter plan program last year and said, "The continued success of the United Fund is dependent upon each firm and employe in Beaver County pledging a fair share gift through the chapter plan program.

Cosmic Rays May Uncover New Passages In Pyramids

CAIRO (AP) — By means of cosmic rays scientists hope to find out if the Cheops pyramid contains passages or chambers no' yet discovered by archeologists.

Prof. Fathi Bediewi of Ein-Shams University is collaborating by mail with Dr. Luis W. Alvarez of California's Lawrence Radiation Laboratory to set up electronic instruments inside the pyramid that is 481 feet high.

The project is designed to measure cosmic rays falling on the huge structure, said Bediewi, and "by simple computation we will be able to determine whether the pyramid contains any cavities or passages not known to us."

Cosmic rays, Bediewi said, are strong enough to penetrate the limestone blocks of the pyramid, and computing machines measuring the rays will reveal its structure.

"We may not find anything, but at least we will make it definite that the pyramid contains no more than is already known," he said. "Or we may discover the original entrance of the great monument."

Bediewi, a British-trained nuclear physicist with a Ph.D. from Liverpool university, is 42 years old. The Great Pyramid is 4,500.

"I have no knowledge of archeology, but we are placing science in its service," he said.

"Simply, our technique is analogous to the X-ray system, but with one difference. Strong cosmic rays will take the place of X-rays, which would not be at all effective with huge stone blocks."

Two chambers — the burial rooms of Cheops and his queen — are known, and some archeologists believe there may be others inside the pyramid.

Kent Attacker Named By Steubenville Coed

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP)—Portage County Prosecutor George Martin says a Kent State University coed has named Samuel Rohio, 26, a graduate student from Kenya, as her attacker in Kent nearly two months ago.

Martin said Wednesday that Teresa Harpe, 22, of Steubenville, named the African exchange student in two days of questioning recently.

Miss Harpe was beaten May 12 as she and Rohio strolled along the Cuyahoga River bank in Kent. Rohio previously pleaded innocent to a charge of aggravated assault filed by Kent police and is free under $3,500 bond. He contends an unidentified man beat Miss Harpe.

The case is to be presented to the grand jury next week.

Out Of The Air

Major Trend In Television

"The biggest single major trend of the 1966-67 television season," as Michael H. Dann spots it, "is the extension of the weekly program to bi- and tri-weekly exposure."

Dann should know. As CBS-TV programming vice president, he is in the middle of planning for season after next. This fall's programs are already tumbling off the assembly line.

"More than 20 per cent of the new show submissions for next year," he said, "leave room for more than one program a week.

"THIS DOES NOT encompass just family drama" (his euphemism for soap opera) "but also Westerns, situation comedy, contemporary action and other dramatic forms."

The trend was begun by ABC-TV's "Peyton Place," which last season started as a weekly double exposure and went to three-a-week a fortnight ago. Next season NBC's "Dr. Kildare" is splitting to two half hours on successive nights.

Even though CBS' attempt in the field—the two-part soap, "Our Private World"—has been vetoed by ratings. Dann's enthusiasm for multi-part prime-time drama is undimmed.

"A successful show will be almost as successful in a second exposure," he says. "Besides, the trend answers one of the big questions the industry faces—shortage of new shows. One of the ways to meet it is two or three-parters every week."

A GOOD INDICATION of serial popularity, Dann claims, is that next season "without exception all dramatic forms on CBS-TV plan two - parters. They're fast becoming a staple."

He pointed out that continued stories, in two or more episodes, have had a record of continued success over the last few seasons, in "Lassie," "The Defenders," "Ben Casey" and "Dr. Kildare."

It's conceivable that some series may go to five programs a week Dann said, but CBS has no such plans. Three a week, he thought, might be the more likely outer limit.

"The trend is a major retreat from the half-hour and hour dramatic unit," Dann noted. "If it continues, the hour may be variety."

PRODUCER Arthur Rabin believes he's blazing new trails with his series of nine half-hour programs on "The History of the Negro People" from African origin to three-continent importance.

"Scholarship has been weak exploring this area," he said, "and we're cutting through some new ground."

The series has been two years in the making. It will be telecast over the National Educational Television network beginning the week of Oct. 10.

Ossie Davis will host and narrate the series. He also has written the program, "Slavery." It is one of two dramas and will feature Davis, his wife Ruby Dee and the choral group, "Voices, Inc." The other drama, "Free at Last," was written by Rabin and James Benjamin.

NOVELIST John A. Williams, whose most recent book is "This Is My Country, Too," has written a program, too. An exploration of American Negro ties with Africa, filmed in Nigeria.

Three programs are on tape and six on film. They were shot in Africa, Latin America and the United States, with one program, Rabin said, examining the reported racial paradise of Brazil.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, July 8, the 189th day of 1965. There are 176 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1835, the Liberty Bell in Philadelphia was cracked as it was being tolled to mark the death of Chief Justice John Marshall.

On this date

In 1896, William Jennings Bryan made his famous "Cross of Gold" speech before the Democratic National Convention in Chicago.

In 1900, United States forces were sent to China to suppress the Boxer Rebellion.

In 1889, John L. Sullivan defeated Jake Kilrain in the 75th round. This was the last bare-knuckle fight for the heavyweight championship.

In 1889, New York City's Polo Grounds was opened, the Giants beating Pittsburgh, 7-5.

Ten years ago—Violent fighting was under way in northern Laos between government forces and Communist-supported rebels.

Five years ago— Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba restored peace temporarily in Leopoldville by agreeing to dismiss most white officers and build an army of Congolese.

One year ago — Communist China and Romania agreed to extend their scientific and technical cooperation — a move interpreted as evidence Romania would be more independent of Russia.

Bringing Up A Family

By Dr. GARRY MYERS

Family Benefits By Planning Summer

Some planning during the summer for several children, say from 3 to 12, may make them happier, and their mother's burden lighter. Otherwise, they may get bored and the whole family may become weary and wrought up. In a kind of family council, the children might help in a general daily plan for each week or longer. Certainly the child from 6 to 12 should share in the household chores.

Dr. Garry Myers

Each child should know exactly what his home jobs will be and be held responsible for doing them.

The child should make his own bed and tidy up his own room if he has a room alone. He should help, or take turns in tidying up if he shares a room. The children should help every morning in clearing away the breakfast dishes, tidying up the kitchen and other rooms.

AS A rule, all these things should be done before the child leaves the house. Even if each child has a definite job and may do it when he feels like it, he may keep putting it off, or not do it at all. When all these duties are done the first thing after breakfast, they can be checked. Besides these little jobs may not seem so much of a hardship if all the children work at them at about the same time.

In the planning by the family together, one or two children should be counted on to help prepare lunch or do it alone. These same ones or others may tidy up the place after lunch. Of course, all should be on hand at lunch and dinnertime.

The plans each day should provide for one or two children to help to prepare the family dinner, those to remove things from the table after dinner and those to do, or help do, the kitchen work after dinner. Instead of doing all or most of this work themselves, the parents may need only to supervise and make sure each child fulfills his responsibilities.

OFTEN IN the family plan, one of the older children might assist in the necessary family shopping for dinner or for several days. He or she might even plan, shop and carry through preparation of the family meal.

The daily family plan should provide for a quiet period in the afternoon when, as a rule, all the children would be home with no playmates in. This period of a few hours should be quiet enough that the mother and other adults might relax or sleep; certainly with no shouting, romping or roughhouse.

The children under five or six should be required to be quiet in bed for at least one hour. If they keep quiet then, they usually will go to sleep. It's no time for radio or TV.

The children over five or six might play some quiet non-running games at this period. Provided with ample books and children's magazines, they should be encouraged to read.

IN SOME instances each child from 8 to 12 should be required to read for half an hour or an hour during this afternoon quiet period. Just imagine the growth of reading skills throughout our nation if those children able to read were to do so daily all summer.

While it might not be desirable for each child to have every hour of his summer day planned, his sharing at making a general plan and following it through reasonably well should make his summer days fairly happy and profitable for him and his whole family.

Twins Capture 7th Straight; Indians Sweep Twin Bill

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Johnny Klippstein, who became a part of baseball history in 1956 when he pitched the front seven innings of the first three-man no-hitter, is one out away from pitching nine innings of no-hit ball without any assistance.

This time, however, his name won't make the record book.

The 37-year-old Minnesota reliever again played a vital role for the American League leading Twins Wednesday night, preserving their seventh consecutive victory with 3 1-3 innings of no-hit pitching in a 5-2 victory over Boston.

A well-traveled veteran who started his baseball career in 1944 and is playing with his seventh major league team, Klippstein now has made three appearances during the Twins' latest winning streak and has not allowed a hit in 8 2-3 innings.

If he gets the next out, it will mean a feather in his cap but it won't get his name in the record book. That entry will have to rest with the 1956 game in which he pitched seven innings of no-hit ball for Cincinnati.

Klippstein surrendered seven walks and hit one batter in that history - making game against Milwaukee, and was unceremoniously yanked for a pinch hitter, Hersh Freeman and Joe Black kept the no-hitter going until the 10th before the Braves finally won 2-1 in the 11th.

Klippstein was purchased from Philadelphia last season and had an 0-4 record despite an outstanding 1.96 earned run average. In 26 appearances this season, Klippstein is 3-3 with a 2.41 ERA.

While the Twins were continuing their streak, Cleveland closed to within 1½ games of the top by defeating Chicago 4-2 in both ends of a doubleheader, the second in 11 innings.

Baltimore hopped over the White Sox into third place by blanking Kansas City 1-0, the New York Yankees edged Detroit 4-3 and Washington downed the Los Angeles Angels 3-1.

The Indians scored four runs in the third inning of the opener with the aid of throwing errors by losing pitcher Gary Peters and Don Buford. Gary Bell, Don McMahon and Sam McDowell than combined to check the White Sox on one hit in 5 1-3 innings of relief work.

The Indians broke up the nightcap in the 11th as Rocky Colavito singled home the tie-breaking run and Fred Whitfield followed with a two-run single that proved decisive when the White Sox got one back in their half. Lee Stange got the victory with 10 innings of five-hit hurling.

John and Stu Miller, who are not related, collaborated on a five-hitter against the A's, Stu taking over in the seventh and allowing one hit. The Orioles scored their run off John O'Donoghue in the sixth on a double by Dick Brown and singles by John Miller and Jackie Brandt.

Clete Boyer supplied the big bat for the Yankees, driving in three runs with a solo homer and a bases-loaded single. Boyer's homer in the fifth inning was the first hit off Hank Aguirre, who failed in his third try for victory No. 10. Al Downing won it with a five-hitter.

Dick Nen singled in the go-ahead run for the Senators with a third inning single off Ken McBride, bidding for his first victory since last September. Frank Kreutzer started for Washington but injured his arm and Howie Koplitz and Ron Kline pitched 8 2-3 innings of shutout relief.

Cardenas Strikes Winning Blow As Reds Regain Lead

Pirates Blanked By Phillies, 1-0

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

No. 100 didn't help, and 101 couldn't do it. So 84 became the magic number as Cincinnati again went .002 ahead of Los Angeles.

The Reds regained the National League lead by two percentage points Wednesday night when Leo Cardenas belted a home run with two out in the bottom of the ninth inning that provided a 7-6 victory over the Dodgers.

Cardenas' clinching blow was his third hit of the night and his 84th of the season. Earlier in the slugging match, Vada Pinson's 100th hit had gone to waste, and so had Pete Rose's 101st.

It had appeared a romp for the Reds — against Sandy Koufax — when they shelled the prized left-hander for five runs in the first two innings. They finally chased Koufax, winner of eight straight, in the fifth but the Dodgers caught fire, and eventually caught up when Jim Lefebvre's two-run homer made it 6-6 in the eighth.

In other NL action — Tom Haller homered with two on in the 13th against Bob Gibson, lifting San Francisco to a 4-2 decision that ended St. Louis' winning string at seven games; Chris Short's three-hit pitching and Clay Dalrymple's eighth-inning homer enabled Philadelphia to nip Pittsburgh 1-0; Rico Carty's hitting led Milwaukee over Houston 5-2, and Larry Jackson ran his lifetime record to 11-0 against New York as the Chicago Cubs beat the last-place Mets 8-3.

Gibson, who struck out 12 in his 13-inning stint against the Giants, was touched for a two-out single by Willie Mays before Haller connected for his clinching homer. Each side scored a run in the 12th, the Cards with the help of two San Francisco errors.

Short allowed three singles, walked three and struck out seven in outpitching Bob Friend in the Phils-Pirates squeaker. Philadelphia muffed a couple of chances to score before Dalrymple's homer in the eighth.

Carty drove in two Milwaukee runs with a homer and single and set up another run with a double, while Hank Aaron chipped in with a homer for the Braves. Houston's runs came off homers by Walt Bond and Jim Wynn. Ken Johnson was the winning pitcher, Bob Bruce the loser.

Rookie Chris Krug batted across four runs with a pair of bases-loaded singles, with Billy Williams adding a homer and two singles to the 11-hit Cub attack. Jackson gave way to reliever Ted Abernathy in the eighth, but the Cubs had put it out of reach with five runs in the top of the inning.

Allen Drives In Three As Twins Top Red Sox

Palmer Rallies, Trails Lema By 1

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) — Defending champion Tony Lema fired a one-under-par 72 for a score of 140 Thursday but Arnold Palmer turned loose one of his typical finishes to move within a single shot of the leader in the British open golf championship.

On the 10th hole, he needed three strokes to reach the green but he banged in a 25-footer for a par four. On the 15th, the Latrobe, Pa., professional hit his tee shot into some shrubbery and could only hack it out a few yards.

Two tremendous shots put him on the par five 17th and there he ran in a putt of 45 feet for his eagle.

Lema's round was matched by Terry Dill of Muleshoe, Tex., whose 75-72—147 seemed certain to survive the day's cut when the field will be reduced to the low 45 and ties. The rangy Texan one-putted the first seven holes, got his par from a gravel path at the 11th and eagled the 517-yard 13th.

Lema ran into trouble at the 393-yard 10th hole. He slightly hooked his drive and the ball wound up on a hill. Then he hooked a short iron into a bush and found himself with an unplayable lie.

Charles Lawrie, deputy chairman of the championship committee, ruled that Lema could have free drop. Lema dropped and yet again the ball rolled near the scaffolding. Lawrie said he could have another free drop. But Lema decided to take the shot — though his back swing still was slightly impeded.

He held the club low down and despite all his problems finished with a bogey five.

The flamboyant, confident Californian, playing the tournament with only two days' practice, started with a birdie at the 493-yard first hole where he laid three-wood second shot on the green and two-putted from 30 feet.

Twins Capture 7th Straight; Indians Sweep Twin Bill

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Johnny Klippstein, who became a part of baseball history in 1956 when he pitched the front seven innings of the first three-man no-hitter, is one out away from pitching nine innings of no-hit ball without any assistance.

This time, however, his name won't make the record book.

The 37-year-old Minnesota reliever again played a vital role for the American League leading Twins Wednesday night, preserving their seventh consecutive victory with 3 1-3 innings of no-hit pitching in a 5-2 victory over Boston.

A well-traveled veteran who started his baseball career in 1944 and is playing with his seventh major league team, Klippstein now has made three appearances during the Twins' latest winning streak and has not allowed a hit in 8 2-3 innings.

If he gets the next out, it will mean a feather in his cap but it won't get his name in the record book. That entry will have to rest with the 1956 game in which he pitched seven innings of no-hit ball for Cincinnati.

Klippstein surrendered seven walks and hit one batter in that history - making game against Milwaukee, and was unceremoniously yanked for a pinch hitter, Hersh Freeman and Joe Black kept the no-hitter going until the 10th before the Braves finally won 2-1 in the 11th.

Klippstein was purchased from Philadelphia last season and had an 0-4 record despite an outstanding 1.96 earned run average. In 26 appearances this season, Klippstein is 3-3 with a 2.41 ERA.

While the Twins were continuing their streak, Cleveland closed to within 1½ games of the top by defeating Chicago 4-2 in both ends of a doubleheader, the second in 11 innings.

Baltimore hopped over the White Sox into third place by blanking Kansas City 1-0, the New York Yankees edged Detroit 4-3 and Washington downed the Los Angeles Angels 3-1.

The Indians scored four runs in the third inning of the opener with the aid of throwing errors by losing pitcher Gary Peters and Don Buford. Gary Bell, Don McMahon and Sam McDowell than combined to check the White Sox on one hit in 5 1-3 innings of relief work.

The Indians broke up the nightcap in the 11th as Rocky Colavito singled home the tie-breaking run and Fred Whitfield followed with a two-run single that proved decisive when the White Sox got one back in their half. Lee Stange got the victory with 10 innings of five-hit hurling.

John and Stu Miller, who are not related, collaborated on a five-hitter against the A's, Stu taking over in the seventh and allowing one hit. The Orioles scored their run off John O'Donoghue in the sixth on a double by Dick Brown and singles by John Miller and Jackie Brandt.

Clete Boyer supplied the big bat for the Yankees, driving in three runs with a solo homer and a bases-loaded single. Boyer's homer in the fifth inning was the first hit off Hank Aguirre, who failed in his third try for victory No. 10. Al Downing won it with a five-hitter.

Dick Nen singled in the go-ahead run for the Senators with a third inning single off Ken McBride, bidding for his first victory since last September. Frank Kreutzer started for Washington but injured his arm and Howie Koplitz and Ron Kline pitched 8 2-3 innings of shutout relief.

Nationals Show More Sluggers

Clemente Added To Squad For Tuesday's Star Game

NEW YORK (AP) — From a slugging standpoint, at least, the National League All-Stars will have a decided edge over the Americans when the two squads meet in the annual mid-summer classic at Bloomington, Minn., next Tuesday.

Already boasting a powerful starting line-up, the Nationals added an attractive auxiliary group Wednesday that included sluggers Johnny Callison of Philadelphia, Billy Williams and Ron Santo of Chicago, Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh and Frank Robinson of Cincinnati.

This group shapes up at least favorably with the American League alternates featuring sluggers Harmon Killebrew, Jimmie Hall and Tony Oliva of Minnesota, Elston Howard of New York, Max Alvis of Cleveland, Al Kaline and Bill Freehan of Detroit.

Oliva and Freehan were substituted for ailing Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees and Carl Yastrzemski of the Boston Red Sox. Both are hobbled by injuries not expected to heal in time for the interleague game.

National League All-Star Manager Gene Mauch, unlike his counterpart, Al Lopez, departed from custom and passed over three second choices in picking his nine alternates for the 1965 All-Star team.

Generally, in the past, the All-Star managers have picked players who finished second in the balloting for starting positions. But Mauch passed over first baseman Gordie Coleman of the Reds, second baseman Frank Bolling of the Milwaukee Braves and center fielder Vada Pinson of the Reds.

In their places, he chose Ed Kranepool of the New York Mets, Cookie Rojas of the Phillies and Clemente. Robinson was his utility pick.

Earlier, he had named Managers Dick Sisler of Cincinnati and Bobby Bragan of Milwaukee as his coaches.

The selections left only the world champion St. Louis Cardinals and Houston Astros without a representative. Under All-Star game rules, every club must be represented by at least one player.

This means that at least one pitcher from each of those two clubs will have to be named when the hurlers are announced Friday.

The NL starters will be Joe Torre of the Braves, catcher; Ernie Banks, Cubs, first base; Pete Rose, Reds, second base; Richie Allen, Phillies, third base; Maury Wills, Dodgers, shortstop; Will Stargell, Pirates, left field; Willie Mays, Giants, center field; Henry Aaron, Braves, right field.

The American League starters will include Earl Battey, Twins, catcher; Bill Skowron, White Sox, first base; Felix Mantilla, Red Sox, second base; Brooks Robinson, Orioles, third base; Dick McAuliffe, Tigers, shortstop; Rocky Colavito, Indians, right field; Vic Davalillo, Indians, center field; Willie Horton, Tigers, left field.

Bobby Richardson of the Yankees and Zoilo Versalles of the Twins completed the American League reserves.

Through Wednesday's games, the National League All-Star squad led the Americans in home runs, 188 to 169, and in runs batted in, 702 to 665.

Nationals Show More Sluggers

Clemente Added To Squad For Tuesday's Star Game

NEW YORK (AP) — From a slugging standpoint, at least, the National League All-Stars will have a decided edge over the Americans when the two squads meet in the annual mid-summer classic at Bloomington, Minn., next Tuesday.

Already boasting a powerful starting line-up, the Nationals added an attractive auxiliary group Wednesday that included sluggers Johnny Callison of Philadelphia, Billy Williams and Ron Santo of Chicago, Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh and Frank Robinson of Cincinnati.

This group shapes up at least favorably with the American League alternates featuring sluggers Harmon Killebrew, Jimmie Hall and Tony Oliva of Minnesota, Elston Howard of New York, Max Alvis of Cleveland, Al Kaline and Bill Freehan of Detroit.

Oliva and Freehan were substituted for ailing Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees and Carl Yastrzemski of the Boston Red Sox. Both are hobbled by injuries not expected to heal in time for the interleague game.

National League All-Star Manager Gene Mauch, unlike his counterpart, Al Lopez, departed from custom and passed over three second choices in picking his nine alternates for the 1965 All-Star team.

5 Youths Held In Harassing Of Interracial Pair

EAST MEADOW, N.Y. (AP) —Five white teen-agers were arrested Wednesday night in connection with burning a six-foot cross and breaking two windows at the home of an interracial couple.

The couple, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Wright, said that since they moved into the all-white neighborhood almost two years ago, they have been harassed by abusive telephone calls and vandalism, including damage to their car. Mrs. Wright, 24, is white, her husband, 31, is a Negro.

Nassau County police said they arrested the youths separately. In their statements, authorities said, all denied that their acts had any racial overtones.

Seized and accused of taping a firecracker to a window of the Wrights' home were Clifford J. Snyder, 17, and James Kaylor, 19.

All but Kaylor are students at East Meadow High School, police said, adding that Kaylor is a construction laborer.

'Ring' Editor Describes Confusion At Title Bout

By HARRY KELLY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was no smoky hangout of the fight crowd. It was in the big airy hearing room of the House Commerce Committee. But Nat Fleischer, the editor of Ring Magazine, told once again about the final crazy seconds of the Liston-Clay fight.

Chairman Oren Harris, a lean Arkansas Democrat, grinned down from his chair as the little aging man who had spent a lifetime in the rosin and sweat atmosphere of boxing hopped up and down in the witness chair explaining how it was.

After refereeing more than a 1,000 fights and devoting 62 years to athletics, "I never saw such a confused affair" as the one in Lewiston, Maine, said Fleischer with indignation.

How was it that it was Fleischer and not one of the officials who had yelled to referee Jersey Joe Walcott that it was all over — that Liston had been counted out.

Fleischer drew himself up to tell it for the 100th time. When he arrived at his ringside seat, he found there was no table to write on, so the official knockdown timer squeezed over to make room for him.

When Liston was knocked down by Clay in the first round, the knockdown timer was supposed to jump up — and Fleischer jumped up from the witness chair to show how it should be done — and start counting off the seconds with a sweep of his arm.

"But we were wedged in there so tight he couldn't stand up . . . he counted up to 20 . . . finally he asked me to try to get Walcott's attention."

And that's how Jersey Joe got the word the fight was over. In the angry backwash from the fight came a handful of bills for the committee to consider, aimed at cleaning up boxing by establishing a federal boxing commission.

But Cus D'Amato, famed in ring circles for his tilting at the establishment and for being the former manager of Floyd Patterson, told the committee, "There was nothing wrong with the Clay-Liston bout."

Stocky, fast-talking D'Amato said that the ringside television camera beaming the fight to theater spectators around the country wasn't in position to catch the knockout punch.

So, explained Cus, "The people watching on closed circuit didn't see the blow . . . they thought it was what we call a tank job."

5 Youths Held In Harassing Of Interracial Pair

EAST MEADOW, N.Y. (AP) —Five white teen-agers were arrested Wednesday night in connection with burning a six-foot cross and breaking two windows at the home of an interracial couple.

The couple, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Wright, said that since they moved into the all-white neighborhood almost two years ago, they have been harassed by abusive telephone calls and vandalism, including damage to their car. Mrs. Wright, 24, is white, her husband, 31, is a Negro.

Nassau County police said they arrested the youths separately. In their statements, authorities said, all denied that their acts had any racial overtones.

Seized and accused of taping a firecracker to a window of the Wrights' home were Clifford J. Snyder, 17, and James Kaylor, 19.

All but Kaylor are students at East Meadow High School, police said, adding that Kaylor is a construction laborer.

'Ring' Editor Describes Confusion At Title Bout

By HARRY KELLY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was no smoky hangout of the fight crowd. It was in the big airy hearing room of the House Commerce Committee. But Nat Fleischer, the editor of Ring Magazine, told once again about the final crazy seconds of the Liston-Clay fight.

Chairman Oren Harris, a lean Arkansas Democrat, grinned down from his chair as the little aging man who had spent a lifetime in the rosin and sweat atmosphere of boxing hopped up and down in the witness chair explaining how it was.

After refereeing more than a 1,000 fights and devoting 62 years to athletics, "I never saw such a confused affair" as the one in Lewiston, Maine, said Fleischer with indignation.

How was it that it was Fleischer and not one of the officials who had yelled to referee Jersey Joe Walcott that it was all over — that Liston had been counted out.

Fleischer drew himself up to tell it for the 100th time. When he arrived at his ringside seat, he found there was no table to write on, so the official knockdown timer squeezed over to make room for him.

When Liston was knocked down by Clay in the first round, the knockdown timer was supposed to jump up — and Fleischer jumped up from the witness chair to show how it should be done — and start counting off the seconds with a sweep of his arm.

"But we were wedged in there so tight he couldn't stand up . . . he counted up to 20 . . . finally he asked me to try to get Walcott's attention."

And that's how Jersey Joe got the word the fight was over. In the angry backwash from the fight came a handful of bills for the committee to consider, aimed at cleaning up boxing by establishing a federal boxing commission.

But Cus D'Amato, famed in ring circles for his tilting at the establishment and for being the former manager of Floyd Patterson, told the committee, "There was nothing wrong with the Clay-Liston bout."

Stocky, fast-talking D'Amato said that the ringside television camera beaming the fight to theater spectators around the ccuntry wasn't in position to catch the knockout punch.

Life Among The Brous

By HAL BOYLE

KHE SANH, South Viet Nam (AP) — Life is so unlikely among the Vietnamese mountain tribespeople that a child isn't even given a name until its first birthday.

Since many infants die before they are a year old, there doesn't seem much point in naming them until they have at least a 50-50 chance of growing up.

Mountain folk are always interesting to outsiders, who find their ways quaint, repulsive, but full of a primitive charm.

The hillbillies here are no exception. They are members of a Montagnard tribe called the Brous, which rhymes with booze. They live in rugged hills amid rich green jungle drapery a few miles south of the demilitarized zone that theoretically divides this war-torn land.

To anybody but a fellow Brou, the life of the ordinary Brou would seem insufferable. He dwells at a bare survival level. Some work on a French-owned coffee plantation; others till arid hillside patches.

Gastronomically speaking, the Brous' motto seems to be: "If it is smaller than you and can't get away, eat it. You never know where your next meal is coming from."

You see many small dogs around Brou hamlets, but rarely any big older dogs. As soon as they reach an appetizing size, most dogs go into the pot. Among other things the Brous put in the pot are lizards, cats, rats and monkeys.

The wooden crossbow is a silent, deadly and effective tool for closeup jungle hunting. The tiny bamboo arrows are tipped with a poison made from tree gum. The poison affects the blood of a game animal but not the meat.

Brou children start courting at 12 or 13 and marry at 15 or 16. The moral standards of married Brous are a cut above civilized conduct. Wife swapping appears unheard of, and the price of adultery may be a poisoned arrow through the heart.

The Brous use any excuse to throw a party, whether it's a wedding, funeral, or just that the moon seems right. The men gather around a crock of homebrew made from rice or potatoes, and proceed to get crocked. The chief takes a gulp through a 6-foot-long straw stuck into the crock, then passes it to the honored guests.

"After you get a quick flash of his bridgework, you have to close your eyes when it's your turn to sip," said one American, thus honored.

Hearings Are Set For 5 In Charges

Hearings are scheduled Monday for five persons cited by Hancock County deputy sheriffs for alcoholic sale violations, including two arrested Sunday in Newell and three cited Wednesday in Weirton.

Scheduled to appear before Squire Harry Lytton of Newell at 7:30 p. m. Monday are Blanche Fuller, owner of the Newell Tavern, charged with permitting the sale of beer before hours on Sunday, and Madeline Cosgrove, an employe charged with the sale of beer before hours.

Three Weirton residents are due for hearings Monday before Squire John D. Herron in New Cumberland.

They are George Meaiankes and Alex Contoelofteriou, charged with possession of alcohol, and Josephine Deans, sale of alcohol.

Meaiankes and the woman are to appear at 8:30 p. m. They were cited at 9:30 a. m. Wednesday at the Roosevelt Inn on Weir Ave., Weirton.

Building Workers End Walkout In Cleveland

Ohio House Approves Disability Amendment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio, "The Mother of Presidents"—including the assassinated William McKinley—is close to becoming the first state to decide whether an acting president should replace a disabled chief executive.

Just one day after Congress gave final approval, the Ohio House overwhelmingly endorsed a proposal to install the vice president as acting president if the president is too sick or injured to do his job.

The proposal—which would become the 25th amendment to the U. S. Constitution if finally approved by 38 states—is designed to avoid the kind of lapse in presidential command that occurred when McKinley was shot in Buffalo, N. Y. in 1901.

Symington Says Red Chinese Near H-Bomb

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington said today that Communist China's two atomic explosions were a dangerous development that "have gone a long way toward changing the power structure of the world."

Many experts believe Red China will have ballistic missiles with nuclear warheads by 1970, the Missouri Democrat said in a speech prepared for delivery in the Senate.

"They also believe that, because of the sophistication of these original explosions, the Red Chinese are only a few years away from production of hydrogen bombs," Symington added.

Freedom House was formed in 1941 to advance the ideals of a free society.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you printed a letter from a reader who signed herself "Too Late." Hers was a tragic story. She was a girl who married much too young and her life was as she put it, "a mess."

In closing she confessed, "the love I was sure would last forever faded after a couple of months." You advised "Too Late" to keep her chin up and to keep fighting.

Her letter could have been written by me 10 years ago. There were times when I felt life wasn't worth living. Then one day I began to look around me and take stock. I discovered that no marriage is without its disappointments, its periods of boredom and just plain unhappiness.

My husband and I have learned that tolerance for each other's faults, mutual respect and consideration, and a sense of humor, has kept us afloat. Our marriage may not be glamorous according to movie standards but neither is anyone else's. It took awhile but now we know we have much to be thankful for.—C.C.

Dear C.C.: Your honest and realistic approach to marriage is well worth examining. Every word you say is true. Take notes students.

Heisting Hobby

Dear Ann: We know a couple who has not bought a towel or a bath mat for years. Why should they when Mr. Hilton, Mr. Sheraton and others provide them with such fine items?

The ash trays, glasses, cups and saucers in their home are clearly marked The Plaza, and the Greenbrier, to name two.

Whenever they go to a restaurant they take something home — a sugar bowl, a cream pitcher or a piece of silverware. It's always a "little souvenir."

Last night we were dining in a posh restaurant. Mrs. X put a fine linen napkin in her purse and told her husband to put one in his pocket because she needed two to make a even dozen.

I could hold my tongue no longer and said, "Don't you people know you are stealing?" Mr. X became indignant and replied, "At these prices they expect it."

This couple has children who can read. Wouldn't you think they'd be ashamed? Are we "Square," as they say? — A AND Z.

Dear A and Z: Any item slipped out of a hotel or restaurant is not a souvenir. It is stolen. And the person who does it is not a souvenir collector, he is a thief.

Children learn by example. Parents who bring home stolen property are going to have a difficult time keeping their kids honest.

Macabre Album

Dear Ann: Taking photographs at a wedding is a common practice but have you ever heard of hiring a photographer to take pictures at a funeral?

A relative of mine passed away a few days ago. A daughter of the woman who died insists she is going to have the world's most complete family album. She said she failed to hire a photographer when her father died and she has regretted it ever since.

The photographer took pictures of the casket (both open and closed). He photographed the pallbearers, the clergyman (during the eulogy) and the funeral procession. When the photographer showed up at the cemetery I could scarcely believe my eyes. What do you think of this? — THOROUGHLY DISGUSTED.

Dear Thoroughly: It makes a great deal of sense to have a photographer around to capture, for posterity, moments of joy but to take pictures of a funeral for a family album seems creepy and macabre to me.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

Lodge Group To Take Part In Convention

A delegation from Gustave Bendheim Lodge 812 of the Local B'nai B'rith will take part in the 113th annual convention of District Grand Lodge No. 2 at Columbus July 10-13.

Representing the lodge will be Dr. Alexander S. Fisher, president, Mike Turk, David Silverman and Martin Gluchow.

Gluchow, past president of the local lodge and past president of District 2, will be chairman of the convention.

Delegates from eight states will be present to plan the coming year's program in the areas of citizenship, youth, veterans' affairs, social service, civil liberties and philanthropies both in the U. S. and abroad.

B'nai B'rith, which means Sons of the Covenant, is now in its 122nd year and is the largest Jewish service organization in the world, championing the cause of human rights for all peoples everywhere, regardless of race, creed or national origin.

The East Liverpool lodge has participated in community affairs since its inception, Dr. Fisher points out, having assisted in the school safety program and having cooperated with law enforcement officials in various other projects. This year it provided a scholarship in the Citizens Scholarship Foundation program.

Chairmen Named For Wellsville's Kaycee Council

Chairmen for the coming year have been appointed by Sam Amato, grand knight of Wellsville Knights of Columbus Council 507.

Named to serve until July 1966 were Frank Roberts, general program; Nunzio Lombardozzi, Catholic activities; James Stevens, council activities; John McCarron, fraternal activities; William Cataldo, membership; Glenn Rutledge, publicity; George Crews, youth activities; Andrew Holowaty, lecturer; George Prokop, conservation; Leonard DeFalco, organization, and Anthony Cataldo, admission.

The appointments were announced at a meeting Tuesday night. Roberts discussed plans for the St. Rocco festival in August. Advance sale tickets will be available from members and also from most Wellsville merchants.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: I'm a busy mother of several small children:

Two of my neighbors and I have a marvelous cooperative working. We each have "kids' day" one day a week. On that day NOTHING else is planned (except a Heloise "top clean" before 9 a.m.).

We have nursery school at our house for our own and two other neighbors' pre-schoolers.

In this way, our little ones receive guidance at the beginning of their social development, learn to be away from mommy, and to play with other youngsters.

Too, they have the benefit and variety of a sizeable number of toys to enjoy. They are "visitors" some days, and have "guests" on other days.

Then, there are those free days each week.

Our wee ones are very happy children who aren't in trouble in our neighbors' yards when out playing, or running into danger's way!

And, mommy misses them when they are away, and welcomes them home with open arms, and they say "hello" with a big hug.

Isn't this wonderful? We don't really know how we got the idea, but we were blessed with it, so I just had to pass it along to you.

ANNE GILLIS.

And, bless you, Anne, for passing it along.

HELOISE.

DEAR LADIES: Please, don't put anything that's marked "fiberglass" in your washing machine to launder with any article of clothing.

This fabric is just what it claims to be—glass!

You CANNOT put an article of clothing (such as nurses' uniforms—that you write me about) in with this material and then wear it again. Heaven help you if you do.

This fiber glass breaks the same as a glass dropped on the floor, and those little glass fibers get into your washing machine and into clothing. When you put on the garment, the small glass fibers cause friction and trouble for you.

If this has happened to you, so that you have to see your doctor about it, be sure to tell him that you washed your clothing in the washer with something made from fiberglass.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: Did you ever try cutting a potato in two, sprinkling garlic salt on the cut side, putting the potato back together, rolling it in foil and then baking it? Yummy! Garlic potatoes with no garlic buds.

POTATO MAN.

Yes, I did . . . twice this week. And it's great. Thank you, sir.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: When sewing on buttons, especially on heavy material, I place a fine-toothed comb between the button and the material.

The needle goes between the teeth of the comb.

This is a good way to keep the thread equal for each stitch, and the buttons will not be sewn on too tightly.

MRS. R. H. BEBHART.

DEAR HELOISE: For tenters and campers who want to keep their mattresses dry when camping overnight:

Have them put plastic contour mattress covers on the UNDER side of their mattresses—never on top of them—as the moisture comes UP from the ground during the night!

Sure keeps the dampness out. Dry mattress every time.

A Dog Gets Exercise, Jokester His Chance

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Richard Wangerin, manager of the Louisville Orchestra, has some friends who own an ancient dog that was growing fat.

The veterinarian prescribed exercise and the couple learned by accident that the dog would run through the house every time the telephone rang.

Whenever the couple was away, they'd call home, knowing that old Rover was getting his workout.

A neighbor spotted what was happening. The next time the couple was away, he slipped into the house and waited for the phone to ring.

When it did, he picked up the receiver, panted loudly several times and then hung up.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you printed a letter from a reader who signed herself "Too Late." Hers was a tragic story. She was a girl who married much too young and her life was as she put it, "a mess."

In closing she confessed, "the love I was sure would last forever faded after a couple of months." You advised "Too Late" to keep her chin up and to keep fighting.

Her letter could have been written by me 10 years ago. There were times when I felt life wasn't worth living. Then one day I began to look around me and take stock. I discovered that no marriage is without its disappointments, its periods of boredom and just plain unhappiness.

My husband and I have learned that tolerance for each other's faults, mutual respect and consideration, and a sense of humor, has kept us afloat. Our marriage may not be glamorous according to movie standards but neither is anyone else's. It took awhile but now we know we have much to be thankful for.—C.C.

Dear C.C.: Your honest and realistic approach to marriage is well worth examining. Every word you say is true. Take notes students.

Heisting Hobby

Dear Ann: We know a couple who has not bought a towel or a bath mat for years. Why should they when Mr. Hilton, Mr. Sheraton and others provide them with such fine items?

The ash trays, glasses, cups and saucers in their home are clearly marked The Plaza, and the Greenbrier, to name two.

Whenever they go to a restaurant they take something home — a sugar bowl, a cream pitcher or a piece of silverware. It's always a "little souvenir."

Last night we were dining in a posh restaurant. Mrs. X put a fine linen napkin in her purse and told her husband to put one in his pocket because she needed two to make a even dozen.

I could hold my tongue no longer and said, "Don't you people know you are stealing?" Mr. X became indignant and replied, "At these prices they expect it."

This couple has children who can read. Wouldn't you think they'd be ashamed? Are we "Square," as they say? — A AND Z.

Dear A and Z: Any item slipped out of a hotel or restaurant is not a souvenir. It is stolen. And the person who does it is not a souvenir collector, he is a thief.

Children learn by example. Parents who bring home stolen property are going to have a difficult time keeping their kids honest.

Macabre Album

Dear Ann: Taking photographs at a wedding is a common practice but have you ever heard of hiring a photographer to take pictures at a funeral?

A relative of mine passed away a few days ago. A daughter of the woman who died insists she is going to have the world's most complete family album. She said she failed to hire a photographer when her father died and she has regretted it ever since.

The photographer took pictures of the casket (both open and closed). He photographed the pallbearers, the clergyman (during the eulogy) and the funeral procession. When the photographer showed up at the cemetery I could scarcely believe my eyes. What do you think of this? — THOROUGHLY DISGUSTED.

Dear Thoroughly: It makes a great deal of sense to have a photographer around to capture, for posterity, moments of joy but to take pictures of a funeral for a family album seems creepy and macabre to me.

States Get Disability Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has given its final stamp of approval, and now it's up to the state legislatures to decide whether an amendment covering presidential disability should be added to the Constitution.

Sponsors believe that sometime in 1967 the proposal will be approved as the 25th Amendment by the legislatures of 38 states — three-fourths of the nation's 50 states.

Such action thus would seal into the Constitution the first definitive answer to the query of John Dickinson of Delaware when he asked the Constitutional Convention in 1787:

"What is the extent of the term 'disability' and who is to be the judge of it?"

Senate approval of the proposed amendment came Tuesday on a 68-5 roll call vote. Voting against it were Sens. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, Eugene J. McCarthy and Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., and John G. Tower, R-Tex.

The proposed amendment would supplant a provision of Article II, Section 1, of the Constitution.

Article II says that in the case of the inability of the president to carry out his duties "the same shall revolve on the vice president." It stipulates that Congress can provide for the inability of both the president and vice president, set up a line of succession to the office, with such officer to act as president "until the disability be removed, or a president shall be elected."

In acting on the proposed 25th Amendment, the Senate brushed aside Gore's contentions that the language needed further clarification.

Debate centered on a provision under which the vice president and a majority of the Cabinet — or such other body as Congress might set up — could notify Congress in writing that the president was unable to perform his duties and the vice president would take over.

However, if the president sent a written declaration to Congress that he had no disability, he would resume his office unless the vice president and a majority of the Cabinet notified Congress of their disagreement within four days.

If it were not in session, Congress would be required to meet in 48 hours and resolve the dispute within 21 days. If both houses decided by a two-thirds majority vote that the president was disabled, the vice president would continue to function. Otherwise the president would resume office.

Gore told the Senate he would not like to speculate that "some diabolical character" some day might become vice president and take advantage of the provisions to oust a president. He said such a vice president could gain acting status and appoint a Cabinet to help him keep it. If a Cabinet gave him a majority but another body set up by Congress didn't agree, he asked, "Who would control?"

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., sponsor of the measure, said that if Congress established another body, it would supersede the Cabinet.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said that to give Gore's fears substance, "you'd have to assume a venal vice president" acting in league with "venal Cabinet members."

"I doubt if we need to be afraid of the ghosts that have been raised," he said.

Proposal Surprises Many

Critics Rip Gov. Rhodes Over Lake Highway Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The first step in Gov. James A. Rhodes' proposal to build a highway across Lake Erie will be a study to determine whether there would be enough traffic to justify the great expense.

Rhodes had barely announced his idea Wednesday before criticism and skepticism arose.

A. G. Lancione, Ohio House Democratic leader and an announced candidate for governor, accused Rhodes of operating "a haphazard highway program by press release." He contended the Lake Erie highway idea was "proposed as a coverup for existing highway failures" and questioned the feasibility of such a road.

"I would have thought that anyone seriously considering a project like this would consult people who are 50 per cent interested in it," said A. T. C. McNab, deputy minister of the Highway Department in Ontario.

Apparently only Highway Director P. E. Masheter had been forewarned. And aides said Masheter wasn't informed until the night before the governor's statement.

Rhodes ordered Masheter's department to study the feasibility of a causeway connecting Ohio and Canada and the possibility of Canada and United States government help in paying for it.

The U. S. Bureau of Public Roads in Washington declined to comment, but noted that a similar project crossing Chesapeake Bay was financed without federal funds. Virginia built that 17.6-mile highway, floating a $200 million bond issue to be repaid with tolls.

McNab said his department would be interested in seeing the Ohio feasibility study. But he said such a highway would be extremely expensive and he doubted that the benefits would outweigh the considerable cost within the foreseeable future.

Ontario Highways Minister Charles MacNaughton disputed the governor's suggestion that the highway would be an economic boom to both Ohio and Ontario.

"It's not too difficult to get into Ohio now," he said. "I'd like to see people use the roads we've already built."

MacNaughton also said the proposal made him wonder whether a governors race was coming up in Ohio.

The European Economic Community (EEC), generally called the Common Market, came into effect Jan., 1958, after Belgium, France, Italy, Luxemburg, The Netherlands and West Germany signed a treaty in Rome in 1957 to work toward a customs union and free flow of goods and services.

2 IN MEMORIAM

IN memory of Jennifer McLain 1957-1964.
Your gentle face and patient smile
With sadness we recall
You had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
The voice is mute and stilled the heart
That loved us well and true
Oh bitter was the trial to part
From one as sweet as you.
You are not forgotten loved one
Nor will you ever be
As long as life and memory last
We will remember thee.
We miss you now, our hearts are sore
As time goes by we miss you more
Your loving smile, your gentle face
No one can fill your vacant place
Sadly missed by Mother, Sisters and Grandparents

States Get Disability Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has given its final stamp of approval, and now it's up to the state legislatures to decide whether an amendment covering presidential disability should be added to the Constitution.

Sponsors believe that sometime in 1967 the proposal will be approved as the 25th Amendment by the legislatures of 38 states — three-fourths of the nation's 50 states.

Such action thus would seal into the Constitution the first definitive answer to the query of John Dickinson of Delaware when he asked the Constitutional Convention in 1787:

"What is the extent of the term 'disability' and who is to be the judge of it?"

Senate approval of the proposed amendment came Tuesday on a 68-5 roll call vote. Voting against it were Sens. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, Eugene J. McCarthy and Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., and John G. Tower, R-Tex.

The House had given its approval on a voice vote last Wednesday. President Johnson's signature is not required.

The proposed amendment would supplant a provision of Article II, Section 1, of the Constitution.

Article II says that in the case of the inability of the president to carry out his duties "the same shall revolve on the vice president." It stipulates that Congress can provide for the inability of both the president and vice president, set up a line of succession to the office, with such officer to act as president "until the disability be removed, or a president shall be elected."

In acting on the proposed 25th Amendment, the Senate brushed aside Gore's contentions that the language needed further clarification.

Debate centered on a provision under which the vice president and a majority of the Cabinet — or such other body as Congress might set up — could notify Congress in writing that the president was unable to perform his duties and the vice president would take over.

However, if the president sent a written declaration to Congress that he had no disability, he would resume his office unless the vice president and a majority of the Cabinet notified Congress of their disagreement within four days.

If it were not in session, Congress would be required to meet in 48 hours and resolve the dispute within 21 days. If both houses decided by a two-thirds majority vote that the president was disabled, the vice president would continue to function. Otherwise the president would resume office.

Gore told the Senate he would not like to speculate that "some diabolical character" some day might become vice president and take advantage of the provisions to oust a president. He said such a vice president could gain acting status and appoint a Cabinet to help him keep it. If a Cabinet gave him a majority but another body set up by Congress didn't agree, he asked, "Who would control?"

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., sponsor of the measure, said that if Congress established another body, it would supersede the Cabinet.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said that to give Gore's fears substance, "you'd have to assume a venal vice president" acting in league with "venal Cabinet members."

"I doubt if we need to be afraid of the ghosts that have been raised," he said.

Proposal Surprises Many

Critics Rip Gov. Rhodes Over Lake Highway Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The first step in Gov. James A. Rhodes' proposal to build a highway across Lake Erie will be a study to determine whether there would be enough traffic to justify the great expense.

Rhodes had barely announced his idea Wednesday before criticism and skepticism arose.

A. G. Lancione, Ohio House Democratic leader and an announced candidate for governor, accused Rhodes of operating "a haphazard highway program by press release." He contended the Lake Erie highway idea was "proposed as a coverup for existing highway failures" and questioned the feasibility of such a road.

Across the lake in Ontario, highway officials seemed surprised that they hadn't been contacted before any announcement.

"I would have thought that anyone seriously considering a project like this would consult people who are 50 per cent interested in it," said A. T. C. McNab, deputy minister of the Highway Department in Ontario.

But Rhodes' announcement caught even Ohio highway planners by surprise. One top engineer learned of it from a news broadcaster.

Apparently only Highway Director P. E. Masheter had been forewarned. And aides said Masheter wasn't informed until the night before the governor's statement.

Rhodes ordered Masheter's department to study the feasibility of a causeway connecting Ohio and Canada and the possibility of Canada and United States government help in paying for it.

The U. S. Bureau of Public Roads in Washington declined to comment, but noted that a similar project crossing Chesapeake Bay was financed without federal funds. Virginia built that 17.6-mile highway, floating a $200 million bond issue to be repaid with tolls.

McNab said his department would be interested in seeing the Ohio feasibility study. But he said such a highway would be extremely expensive and he doubted that the benefits would outweigh the considerable cost within the foreseeable future.

Ontario Highways Minister Charles MacNaughton disputed the governor's suggestion that the highway would be an economic boom to both Ohio and Ontario.

"It's not too difficult to get into Ohio now," he said. "I'd like to see people use the roads we've already built."

MacNaughton also said the proposal made him wonder whether a governors race was coming up in Ohio

2 IN MEMORIAM

IN memory of Jennifer McLain 1957-1964.
Your gentle face and patient smile
With sadness we recall
You had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
The voice is mute and stilled the heart
That loved us well and true
Oh bitter was the trial to part
From one as sweet as you.
You are not forgotten loved one
Nor will you ever be
As long as life and memory last
We will remember thee.
We miss you now, our hearts are sore
As time goes by we miss you more
Your loving smile, your gentle face
No one can fill your vacant place
Sadly missed by Mother, Sisters and Grandparents

Junior Editors Quiz on HARMONICAS

QUESTION: Can you tell me how to play the harmonica?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: All we can do is to give you the general idea, so that with a bit of persistance you should be able to teach yourself to play. Harmonicas have a set of square openings; inside are metal reeds which make one sound as you blow in, and another as you suck out. The great trick is to be able to blow in or suck out through only one opening at a time. To do this, cover holes to left with your tongue and have the edge of your mouth cover those to the right, so only one square hole remains open. Move machine back and forth getting right opening for each not needed. To get chord accompaniment, lift up tongue with regular beat, allowing chord reeds at left to shond. It helps to make a cardboard mask, as shown, with opening cut out. Put this over the front of the harmonica, blowing through or sucking back to find which opening gives which note First, find out where the scale is, such as lower C, then D, E, F, G, A, B and higher C. Become expert playing this scale in clear single notes and then you can pick out the ones you need to play tunes with. Players often arch their two hands around the back of the harmonica to get a deeper, more musical sound. Holding the harmonica over a glass also helps.

★ ★ ★

It's Easy To Learn To Water Ski

By JOHN BOHANNAN

One of the easiest sports to learn is water skiing. A friend who teaches it says his pupils have ranged in age from young children to women in their 70's and he has yet to find someone who isn't having a marvelous time after a few lessons.

The first prerequisite is to learn how to swim well. The next step is to purchase a pair of skis, a towline and a buoyant skiing vest or belt.

Your marine dealer or any experienced water skier can help you select your skis. Most are of wooden construction, some are fiberglass, some are a combination of these two materials and a few are of hollow aluminum.

THE IMPORTANT thing is to get a pair of standard - type water skis of the proper size to match your weight. Following a rough rule-of-thumb, if you weigh about 60 and 120 pounds, you should have five-foot skis; if you're between 120 and 175 pounds, make the ski length five feet, six inches; and if your weight is from 175 to 225 pounds, the skis should be five feet, nine inches.

Unfortunates who have been eating too much can get even longer skis to keep them planing, up to around six feet, three inches in length. The heavier you are, the more planing surface is required for a given speed.

One of the best towlines is made of bright, yellow polyethylene. It's easy to see, it floats on top of the water, and it won't stretch on takeoff. The standard line length is 75 feet, with a single towbar attached to the end of the line. A manila line, with a float near the towbar bridle, also is good for beginners.

The boat end of the line can be snap - shackled to a bridle between two eye bolts, spanning the outboard drive shaft. The bolts should pass through frame members as high as possible to take the strain properly. Immerse your skis in water before putting them on. This will make the rubber bindings slippery, and your feet will slide in easily. The adjustable heel bindings should be snug, but comfortable fit.

TRY A FEW dry runs on the beach first. Bend your knees, drop down to a sitting position with your skis in front of you. Have someone pass you the towbar. Grasp it with both palms up, and have him pull you to a standing position with the line passing between your knees. This will stimulate the boat's pull in takeoff. Try this several times until the exercise seems natural.

Have an experienced ski tow driver at the helm of the boat for your first try at skiing. Your buoyant belt and the skis will keep you surfaced while crouching in position immersed in deep water. Be sure the towline is between the tips of your skiis while the driver is idling forward to take the slack out of the line. Keep your skis slanting upward at almost a 45-degree angle.

When the line is taut and you are ready, yell "Hit it!" and he'll open the throttle.

Keep your arms straight and your knees bent. You'll feel the smooth, steady pull of the boat as the skis rise to the surface.

Hold your knees close to your chest until you are planing, then stand up straight, with skis slightly ahead and knees flexed. Don't try to pull the towbar toward you. If you do, your skis will go ahead and you'll fall backward.

After about a dozen spills you'll gain confidence and learn how to control your skis. Lean to the right to turn right, or to the left for a leaf turn, just like a skate board.

Questions and Answers

Q. — Is it awkward to put on skis in deep water?

A. — Yes, until you learn to do it quickly. Tread water with a ski under each arm. Push one ski down and slip your foot into the toe binding. Use both hands to snap the heel binding into place. Keep the knee bent, then repeat the process with the other ski. You'll balance better by holding your breath and ducking your head under each time.

Q. — What other ways are there for a skiing start?

A. — In the shallow - water start, you put on the skis ashore and walk out until you are at least neck deep. Then crouch, let the ski tips rise to the surface, pick up the towbar as the boat idles past, and let the line come between the ski tips. In a dock start, the skier stands erect on the skis on the dock and lets the boat pull him off the dock.

Scout Council Receives 'A' For Camp Site

A national "A" rating award has been presented the Columbiana County Boy Scout Council as the result of the inspection conducted during the recent summer encampment at the Twin Spruce site at Leesville Lake, it was announced today by Bennett Taylor, Scout Executive of the Council.

The presentation marked the first time that the council has won the award. A score of 99 was achieved out of a possible 100.

The inspection was supervised by Lester Stauffer, member of the regional executive committee, and by Charles Whitcomb, a member of the national staff.

The score was based on camp site description and land use; operating and program practices; personnel and training; camp records; health and safety, and sanitation.

Javits Presses Lindsay's Drive

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said today he is encountering inertia — but no turn down — in a personal drive to raise $250,000 to help finance Rep. John V. Lindsay's campaign for mayor of New York.

Javits expressed confidence in an interview that he not only will raise his personal quota but that additional funds will be forthcoming to meet the expected $1.5 million cost of the Republican representative's bid for office.

Associates of Lindsay, who has the New York Liberal Party endorsement and is running as a fusion candidate, reported this week they have raised only $210,000. Lindsay denied a report that New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller had pledged $500,000 in contributions for his campaign.

Javits said it is understandable that donations have been slow. Contrary to reports that some wealthy conservative Republicans are shying away from contributing to a fusion candidate, the senator said he had had no refusals from businessmen he has solicited.

Rogers Firemen Set Open House Saturday

A horse-pulling contest will follow at 7 p. m. on the firemen lot. Ross McCoy, president of the Columbiana County Horse Pullers Association, will be in charge. Trophies and ribbons will be awarded the winners.

The Fire Belles Auxiliary will be in charge of refreshments.

Parliament is the legislative governing body for the United Kingdom, with certain powers over dependent units but none over the independent states.

They were accompanied by Cadet Judy Bailey, who will be a senior counselor for the period. Remaining at the camp to serve as a junior counselor for the period was Miss Karen Craven.

A group from the Community Fresh Air Camp will be leaving next week.
